OVER A MILLION MINERS IDLE IN BRITAIN TODAY

Operations Abandoned in all But a Small Portion of British Mining District

STRIKE FOLLOWED BY FLOOD OF ORDERS TO U. S. MARKETS

Europe After American Coal With Ban on Exports from Britain

LONDON.—All work ceased in the coal mines of the United Kingdom at midnight with the exception of a few for districts and approximately 1,200,000 miners were idle Friday as a result of the controversy over the wage scale. In only two counties in Yorkshire, one in Northumberland, one in Scotland, and one in North Wales, the men have promised to continue at their posts without prejudice to any terms that may be agreed upon, but all other pit workers, including mechanics, pumpmen, ventilating men and pony men, came out with the miners.

Flood Danger Threatens

Danger that the mines may be flooded threatens and many may be ruined from the influx of water. Strenuous efforts are being made to erect volunteers. Yorkshire pumpmen have decided to remain at work and hope was expressed that others would follow their example.

Stop Coal Export

London and other urban centers are believed to have several weeks' supply on hand, owing to the fact that the export of coal has been completely stopped by the board of trade, except in cases where special permits have been issued.

FINGER PRINTS LEAD TO CONFESSION OF LOCAL ROBBERIES

James Bounds, Minneapolis, Admits Doing Two "Jobs" to Local Police Thursday

BREAKS DOWN WHEN FINGER PRINT EVIDENCE IS SHOWN

Says He Obtained Money in Two Local Business Houses

JAMES BOUNDS, stranger who has been working in and out of La Crosse for the past few months, and now under arrest at the Central police station, admitted to Chief of Police J. B. Webber Thursday, he was implicated in two "jobs" done in the city on recent occasions.

The confession of Bounds to the chief of police Thursday came when the finger prints taken at the time of the robberies compared favorably and proved conclusively that he was the man who had committed the acts.

The places entered were the H. P. Stefferson saloon on south Third street, where were twenty dollars in cash, together with a punch board, gold watch chains, a razor and pencils were stolen, while his second "job" was done at the Mike Monson establishment at 222 North Third street. Thirteen dollars and several boxes of cigars were stolen at this place, according to the report. Bounds confessed to entering the former establishment on March 28, while the Monson building was robbed on February 7.

According to the report of the police Bounds had been employed in the city at intervals and during his stay here was suspected of being connected with these robberies. He was picked up by Detective McGraw on Thursday. Bounds claims Minneapolis as his residence.

Bounds was arraigned before County Judge Brindley this morning and pleaded guilty to both charges of burglary. He was held under $4,000 for trial in circuit court. He probably will be arraigned before Judge Higbee on Saturday.

BIG LINER RAMMED AND SUNK IN PUGET BAY; TEN MISSING

Passengers and Crew Taken on Board Freighter Following Collision

HARTLAND ON WAY TO SEATTLE WITH SURVIVORS OF GOVERNOR

Big Boat Carried 172 Passengers and Crew of 124

SEATTLE, Wash.—Twenty-one persons, including eighteen passengers and three members of the crew of the Admiral line steamship Governor, may have lost their lives when the big liner sank off Point Wilson, Washington. A check-up of the survivors arriving on the West Hartland when the freighter docked here at 10 o'clock, disclosed the fact that twenty-one persons carried on the passenger and crew lists of the Governor, were not accounted for.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Seven passengers and three members of the crew of the steamship Governor, sunk off Point Wilson early Friday, are missing, according to a wireless message at 7:15 a. m. from the freighter West Hartland, which is bringing the survivors to Seattle.

The remainder of the passengers and crew are aboard the West Hartland, which, her bows badly damaged by the collision, was proceeding to Seattle under half steam. Purser Meyer Holzer of the Governor was making a check of the survivors, and expected to have it completed before the arrival of the West Hartland here, he advised officials. At the Admiral Line's offices, it was stated the Governor carried 172 passengers and a crew of 124.

A wireless message from Captain Alven, master of the West Hartland, said that vessel's bows were stove in for 12 to 15 feet, but that she was not taking water. All of the West Hartland's crew were accounted for, the message said.

Off Point Wilson, near Port Townsend, at 12:04 Friday morning, the Governor's boilers blew up shortly afterward, and the big passenger ship went down in deep water at 1:15 a. m., according to wireless messages. Some members of the crew were injured by escaping steam and by the impact of the collision, it was said. Passengers were transferred to the West Hartland by small boats.

U. S. SHIP BOARD APPROVES CUT IN SEAMEN'S WAGES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Tentative approval was given by the shipping board Friday to a reduction in the wages of seamen employed on American vessels on the Atlantic and Gulf coast. The question was up at a conference between Chairman Benson and representatives of the American Steamship Owners' association.

A specific plan outlining changes in hours and reductions in wages was presented by the steamship men, but the general situation and did not approve any specific proposals.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE DOES NOT EXTEND TO HIP POCKET—RULING

LANSING, Mich.—The big pocket is immune from investigation under the search and seizure provisions of Michigan's prohibition laws, according to a ruling of the state supreme court. The court held that officers who searched the home of a Bay City man on a search warrant, exceeded their authority when they investigated his clothing.

STATE SENATE O. K.'S BILL FOR JUVENILE PROTECTIVE BUREAU

Measure Creates Department for Care of Defective and Delinquent Children

BILL TO INCREASE SALARIES IS ENGROSSED BY ASSEMBLY

Amendment Proposes Raising Salaries to $750 a Year

MADISON, Wis.—The senate acted favorably on the proposal to establish a juvenile protective bureau in the state, at its session Friday morning. A separate department would be created under the board of control for care of defective and delinquent children, who need special attention.

At the present time there is no special agent to deal with problems raised by untrained children. The proposed measure makes center of juvenile protection under a director acting as head of a board of control department.

The move to have a government legislative investigating committee inquire into the feasibility of establishing a state-owned plant for the manufacture of cement, was advanced in the senate, which adopted the Sachse resolution with an amendment cutting out the appropriation. It will go back to the assembly for concurrence in the amendment.

The Young bill increasing the rate of interest on county highway bonds from five to six per cent was sent to third reading in the senate without objection. It has already passed the assembly. Similarly the Sumnerville bill restricting town boards from appropriating more than $1,000 for road building machinery was advanced.

Vacancies in the office of auditor in Milwaukee would be filled by the mayor under terms of a bill introduced by Senator Arnold which passed. Common councils of the cities of the second, third and fourth classes would fill the vacancies in these places.

A large number of relatively unimportant bills were advanced in both houses, with barely a quorum present.

MONTHLY ALIMONY OF $7,500 AWARDED TO MRS. STILLMAN

Temporary Payments Ordered by Judge in Husband's Suit for Divorce

SIMILAR CHARGES MADE BY BOTH PARTIES TO SUIT

Neither Entitled to Decree if Sustained Says Ruling

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Temporary alimony of $7,500 a month, counsel fees of $25,000 and $12,500 for expenses were fixed Friday for Mrs. Anne L. Stillman, by Justice Joseph Marschauer in the suit for divorce instituted against her by James A. Stillman, president of the National City Bank of New York.

Mrs. Stillman had asked alimony of $10,000 a month and $75,000 counsel fees. Justice Marschauer made public his decision after he had permitted it to be transmitted to the court clerk at White Plains along with affidavits and pleadings presented in the case.

In his decision the justice ruled out of the divorce suit as confidential and privileged the alleged "confession" letter written to Mr. Stillman by his wife. He also ruled out letters alleged to have been written to Mrs. Stillman by Fred Bevan, an Indian guide, who was named in the banker's complaint as co-respondent and accused of being the father of Mrs. Stillman's infant son, Guy.

Pleas Recrimination

The decision set forth that Mrs. Stillman had pleaded recriminations in her answer to the banker's complaint, and that both husband and wife made charges "founded upon an allegation of adultery."

"A husband or wife is not competent to testify against the other," such allegations, the decision said. The justice decided that the affidavits to which the letters were appended contained matters that Mr. Stillman could not testify to, and it was upon this ground that the communications were barred.

Justice Marschauer pointed out that his inhibition against admitting the alleged messages from Bevan to Mrs. Stillman applied only to the motion under consideration and that they might be offered again in connection with later motions.

Bar Woman's Letters

Referring to the alleged letter written to Mr. Stillman by his wife, to the admission of which her attorneys objected and which it was charged by counsel for the banker she wrote "in a moment of hysteria, imputing herself," the decision said: "Communications and transactions between husband and wife were early recognized as privileged and neither could be compelled to disclose what took place between them, and neither was a competent witness to testify as to such transactions or communications of a confidential nature or induced by the marital relation."

"From experience it was found that far less evil would result from the exclusion of such testimony than from its admission. It may in individual cases work hardship but the destruction of confidence between a husband and wife would cause much misery and affect the marriage relation. This rule is founded upon sound public policy."

"LITTLE ENTENTE" ALSO READY TO OPPOSE THE HAPSBURG RESTORATION

Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania Threaten Military Action if Charles is Restored to Throne; Deny Reports Army is Marching on Capital

STEINAMANGER, West Hungary.—11 A. M.—(By the Associated Press.)—Former Emperor Charles declared here Friday morning that his departure from Hungary would be conditioned upon permission to issue a proclamation explaining the "unfavorable circumstances" compelling his withdrawal and saying that he, as king, temporarily confirmed the regency of Admiral Horthy.

The former ruler made this declaration upon receiving a refusal from Admiral Horthy that he be allowed to return to Budapest, coupled with a threat of military measures against him.

PARIS.—(By The Associated Press.)—Warning was given Hungary Friday by the allies that the restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty would entail serious consequences for the Hungarian nation.

This warning, issued through the council of ambassadors, constituted a virtual ultimatum from the chief allied powers, including Great Britain, France and three lesser associates. It was given additional point by the fact that it was communicated officially to the allied states by which Hungary is surrounded—Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Poland—at least the first three of which, comprising the "little entente" have declared themselves ready to take military action against the "Hapsburg restoration."

Meanwhile advices reaching Paris through official and other reliable channels give no confirmation of the rumors that ex-Emperor Charles was marching upon Budapest at the head of a large body of troops to replace himself upon the throne.

Official advices to the French foreign office emphasized that Charles was still at Steinamanger, near the Austrian frontier; that negotiations were in progress for his removal from Hungary, presumably back to Switzerland, through Austria, and that quiet prevailed in the Hungarian capital.

Direct Budapest advices carried official denial of the report that Charles was moving on the capital with frequent declarations that he was guarded at Steinamanger by Austrian troops.

PARIS, April 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Resolutions protesting against the restoration of former Emperor Charles in Hungary and warning the Hungarian government that the consequences of such an event would be disastrous, were adopted by the council of ambassadors here Friday. The resolutions were presented by Jules Cambon, acting in the name of the French government.

"The events of which Hungary is the theater," the resolutions read, "place the principal allied powers under obligation to recall to the government and the people of Hungary the terms of their declaration of February 4, 1920." (In this declaration the council of ambassadors declared the principal allied powers considered that restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty would not be consistent with the principles for which the war had been fought, and at variance with the whole basis of the peace settlement, and that such restoration tolerated by them.)

"Faithful to the principles enunciated in this declaration," continue the resolutions, "the allies have the duty to repeat that the restoration of the Hapsburgs would imperil the very foundation of the peace, and that it could be neither recognized nor tolerated."

"The allied powers count upon the Hungarian government, conscious of the gravity of the situation that would be created by the return to the throne of the former sovereign, to take efficacious measures to suppress the attempts whose success, even momentarily, could not but have disastrous consequences for Hungary."

"This declaration will be telegraphed to the allied high commissioners in Budapest and communicated officially to the Hungarian delegation in Paris, and the representatives of the bordering states of Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Poland."

Capital Reported Quiet

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—The French chargé d'affaires here telegraphed to the foreign office here Friday that he was made of continuing reports of movements of Hungarian troops, adding that absolute calm prevailed in the Hungarian capital.

Count Teleky, said, the chargé's message, was at present in conference with ex-Emperor Charles for whom a safe conduct had been demanded of the Austrian government.

The foreign office has failed to receive any confirmation of reports that Charles was heading an army marching upon Budapest. Its latest statements declare that calm prevails at Steinamanger where the ex-emperor now is, except among a certain portion of the troops.

Charles, advices state, is to be taken some distance from the camp to the castle of Prince Bathory at Kommand, to the south of Steinamanger, with Count Teleky, accompanying him.

Back to Switzerland?

BERNE, Switzerland.—Request has been made of the Swiss government near by the Hungarian legation here to allow former Emperor Charles to return to this country from Hungary. The government has declined the request.

COUNTY TO REWARD THREE FOR AID IN BIESEN MURDER CASE

Joseph Lamke, C. F. Brinkman and Herman Roessler to be Paid for Services

$1,110 APPROPRIATED TO REPAIR MCGILVRAY ROAD

Petition for Prospective Road in Town of Burns is Granted

FOR their services in assisting in clearing up the murder of Mr. Biesen, Brinkman, Brinkman, and Brinkman, the conviction of John Biesen, farm hand, of the murder of Biesen, and also the conviction of Mrs. Biesen, Charles F. Brinkman, Joseph Lamke and Herman Roessler, were awarded by the board of county supervisors at the board meeting Thursday.

Lamke will get $442, Brinkman $75 and Roessler $50. Lamke worked almost night and day for several months on the case. Brinkman also put in considerable time digging up evidence for the state. Roessler obtained a confession from Biesen after his arrest and materially assisted the prosecution in bringing the case to a speedy end in court. The board decided it could not legally reimburse the three for the time and expense they were put to in working on the case but could allow the money as a reward for services rendered the county.

The board appropriated $1,110 to repair the east approach of the McGillvray bridge. The board some time ago sought to revert control of the road to the town board. Suit was brought to compel the board to maintain the bridge. The court decided the town board must maintain the road. The appropriation was made in compliance with the court order.

Lud Christopherson, Charles Craig and Edwin Craig, members of the town board of Burns, petitioned the board to authorize a prospective state and county road, beginning on the present state and county road at about the center of section 10, township 17, range 5, running 30 rods west, thence north through sections 10 and three, township 17, and sections 22, 23 and 29, township 18 and intersecting certain prospective state and county roads running east and west. The board granted the petition.

CHICAGOANS CHEATED OUT OF $100,000 BY FAKE STOCK CONCERN

CHICAGO, Ill.—An alleged bogus stock selling concern which had secured more than $100,000 from 1,800 persons, is said to have been disbanded Friday by the issuance of a federal warrant charging misuse of the mails by Arthur Barry, for whom federal authorities are seeking.

Four hundred thousands of stock were offered for sale, federal investigators said, to persons on a "sucker list" extending from Massachusetts to Denver, and records of the company organized by Barry are said to have been branch offices in various cities.

THE OLD 'MASTERS' ARE FOUND IN TAFT HOME IN CINCINNATI

Brother of Former President Collecting Art Works for Twenty Years

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—In the town of Cincinnati, home of the former President, is to be found one of the finest private collections of the old masters in this country. Little known to the public at large, the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Taft, which they have acquired in the past twenty years, is the small circle of the artist's circle.

The collection is built around the English and French schools. It includes the Taft pictures are the finest examples of their authors to be seen in the United States.

This is notably true, according to the late Frank Duveneck, of Frank Duveneck's collection, of the "Young Man of Blenheim" and "The Young Woman of Blenheim." There was no better judge of Hals in America than Duveneck. The judgment of friends of the Cincinnati artist is that the collection of the Tafts is one of the great masterpieces of the early and late. Among the names of the school to be found in the Taft home are Rembrandt, Terborch, Steen, Ruisdael, Hobbema, Matis and Manet.

The English school is represented almost entirely by examples of the great portrait painters, together with a few landscapes by Turner and Constable. Here are to be seen Hoppner's portrait of Mrs. Gwyn ("The Jesuit's Bride"), Gainsborough's portrait of "Maria Walpole, Duchess of Gloucester," Romney's portrait of Mrs. Johnson, and Constable's "Dedham Mill."

The French collection contains a fine showing of the Barbizon school of landscape painters, including Millet's "La Maitresse" and Daubigny's "Evening on the Oise."

Portraits by Francisco Goya of Queen Maria Luisa and "The Torreador Costillar" are among the most vivid and vital of all the masterpieces. There is a portrait of former President William Howard Taft by Sorolla, another great Spanish, and portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft by Madrazo, also Spanish.

Paul, Eugene, Claude and Duveneck are the Americans represented. "The Soldier's Apprentice" by Duveneck is one of the latest acquisitions of the Taft collection.

Morris W. Brockwell, who recently compiled a catalogue of the Taft collection says in its introduction: "It is the unanimous opinion of those critics who have seen them (they were never shown in Europe) that they are without a rival in any national museum or private collection."

GOES MUST LEARN TO SWIM IS ORDER TO ATLANTIC FLEET

GOES MUST LEARN TO SWIM IS ORDER TO ATLANTIC FLEET

GOES MUST LEARN TO SWIM IS ORDER TO ATLANTIC FLEET

GOES MUST LEARN TO SWIM IS ORDER TO ATLANTIC FLEET

NORFOLK, Va.—Orders have gone down to Guantanamo that some 4,000 men aboard the ships of the Atlantic fleet who don't know how to swim be taught to paddle their own canoe before the fleet comes north for the summer. They will take to the place warm Cuban water under the eyes of rough tongues, but highly efficient petty officers who are widely known to be proficient in the main business of the Navy in any line-getting results.

Navy men are always apt to get a ducking. It looks like plain sailing to see bare-footed launch crews whirl up to the gangway in smooth water, but they have to do it every day. They are the butchers and bakers and candle-stick makers boys of the fleet, always on the go. And it's something of a trick to come alongside in a seaway with out bumping somebody off the boat or carrying away a tender to the profane wrath of the boss and indignation of the deck officer and "first foot" of the ship. A ship's boat hops about like a flea on a hot griddle in a surface stir that leaves the ship as motionless as the Statue of Liberty.

Hence the order to teach the navy to swim. If a lad is dumped overboard and can keep himself afloat for a while, you can trust the Navy in general to fish him safely out finally. They are always punning medals on sailor folk for that.

LORD IS MY HELPER

Gasoline Prices Should Drop

THE price of crude oil, from which your gasoline is made, has been cut in two. But you haven't noticed any such drop in the price of gasoline. Here and there the refiners have lopped off a cent or two, but in the main you are paying the old high prices.

Three months ago, refiners and pipe line companies were paying oil producers $6.10 a barrel for Pennsylvania crude oil. This price has dropped to $3 a barrel.

The price of all other gasoline-producing crude oil has dropped correspondingly, with the exception of California oil, the price of which has been given backbone by the possibility of a mild oil and gasoline shortage in Pacific coast states.

The refiners say that they can't cut gasoline prices until they get rid of huge oil stocks bought at high prices. But stocks of crude oil on hand in the United States January 1, 1921, totalled only 137,000,000 barrels, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

That was less than a four-months' supply and is practically used up now.

When crude oil prices collapsed, the huge tankage in the middle west was nearly empty. Refiners and pipe line companies are now filling up their tankage with cheap oil—which means cheaper-cost gasoline.

Stocks of gasoline on hand are less than a three-months' supply. But no danger of a shortage. The oil market is glutted. Thousands of oil wells are closed down—not being pumped—because the pipe line companies say they can't take all the production.

Gasoline, according to veteran oil producers, should now be selling for an average of not more than eighteen cents a gallon. Some oil men say fourteen cents would yield the refiners snug profits.

Americans in 1920 consumed 4,256,428,000 gallons of gasoline. Consumption now is at about the same rate, despite many not driving their cars. On that basis, every penny-cut in gasoline would save car owners $42,564,280 a year. Likewise, every penny of inflated price of gasoline is a levy of $42,564,280 a year on automobile users.

Gasoline is averaging about twenty-seven cents a gallon in the United States. If, as oil producers claim, this is about ten cents a gallon too much, the excess profits in the gasoline industry are costing us at the rate of about $400,000,000 a year.

Refiners say that they must keep gasoline high because they can't market all other by-products of crude oil. But those by-products—lubricating oil and the like—are being stored for future sale. Since when must gasoline users subsidize a dead lubricant-oil market? When will the gasoline price bubble burst?

Lucky Friday

ARE you afraid of Friday? Brides consider it unlucky. So do business men, who dread it as a day for starting important deals. The aversion to Friday is found in nearly all nations, though Thursday is feared by Scandinavians and Tuesday by the Spanish. The canny Scotch also fly in the teeth of popular superstition, nine-tenths of Scotch weddings being crowded into Friday.

To the Mohammedans alone is Friday the lucky day. They celebrate it as the birthday of the creation of man.

Sailors of all countries dread the day. They talk in awed whispers about Isaac Harvey's ship. Its keel was laid on Friday by a captain who wanted to kill the old superstition. The ship foundered on its first voyage.

Friday's reputation as a disastrous day apparently originated in the early days of the church, when Friday was set as the date of the Crucifixion.

Business men's aversion to Friday is traced to the two Black Fridays on the New York Stock Exchange. The panic of 1873 started on Friday. It was on a Friday in 1869 that Gould and Fisk cornered the gold market and shook Wall Street to its foundations.

But now comes a calendar sharp, claiming that Friday is America's lucky day. It was on Friday he points out, that Columbus sailed for and discovered America. The Mayflower ported at Provincetown on Friday. It was on Friday that Richard Henry Lee introduced the resolution by which the Thirteen Colonies declared their independence. The Revolutionary War was decided on an historical Friday when Cornwallis surrendered.

Woodrow Wilson claims thirteen as his lucky number. President Harding may well claim Friday as his lucky day, for it was on Friday that he was inaugurated president. Let's hope that particular Friday proves as lucky for the nation as it did for Warren G. Harding.

The Stillman Case

TWENTY years hence, the two innocent children now involved in the Stillman divorce case will be pointed out in public and, if their cars are sharp, will hear whispers behind their backs. No matter what the outcome of the Stillman case, no matter what is proved or disproved, these two children will pay the price for their parents. They may develop into honorable and talented men, excellent citizens, but scandal will shadow them to their graves. For scandal is a tar that never washes entirely off. This is both unfortunate and unfair to the children figuring in the Stillman scandal, but it is a fact as hard as agate, a fact that can't be dodged.

In the Stillman case there is a mighty lesson and a grave warning for all fathers and mothers. The lesson is this—that the sins of the parents are visited upon the children, even unto the third and fourth generations. A child may be born into poverty—which can be overcome. He may be handicapped by ill health—through no fault of his parents. But the child who starts life with a stigma shadowing his name is denied his rightful heritage. Guard well your good name and character, lest your child in later years deservedly turn on you the accusing finger.

Are You a Star?

WE can't all be stars, but we can all do our bit of shining. Some folks are not happy because they can't be the Mary Pickfords, the John D. Rockefellers, the Thomas A. Edisons or the Warren Hardings of the eternal movie called Life. But Mary Pickford and the other stars would never shine without support. And the glory of the heavens at night is not in the single brilliantly-glowing planet, but in the myriad-scattered specks of stardust that surround it, each doing its little bit to shine its best.

If we cannot illumine the world, we can brighten the corner where we are—in our homes, at work or in social fellowship. Though the speck of star-dust never becomes any brighter, shine as it will, the radiance of the determined man or woman who make the best of what they are and have, expands with practice, often into stardom.

"How far that little candle throws his beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Otto Lee, president of the Commercial Bowling league, whose tournament is now in progress on the north side, rolled his last game on the Combination alleys last night. Mr. Lee has accepted a position as general manager of a large lumber yard in St. Louis. The game was in the nature of a farewell party for Mr. Lee who is one of the best known of the older bowlers in the league.

Lieut. Gov. Thomas Morris of this city was one of the speakers at the Carl Schurz memorial celebration in Madison today.

Mrs. Emma Law and granddaughter, Emmet Finck, have returned from Biloxi, Mississippi.

S. Sultz, a former La Crosse resident, who lived here fifty-five years ago, is visiting Fred Rowe, 1132 Charles street. Mr. Sultz says that when he first came to La Crosse the Indians were camped on what is now Sixth street. He now resides in Ladysmith, Wis.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Captain Frank L. French of Sparta, an officer in the Thirty-fourth regiment, landed at San Francisco from the Philippines and will be home by the middle of April. He left Sparta two years ago.

Father Untrant of the Holy Trinity church, has gone to Caledonia to assist Father Zueck of that place in holding forty hour devotion services at St. Peter's church.

Postmaster Pettigill has received orders from Washington forbidding him to grant requests asking that letters be forwarded to the "most prominent attorney or the 'most prominent newspaper.'" The order is intended to abate the annoyance that postmasters are constantly put to by letters of that character.

Mrs. C. K. Lush, wife of the editor of the Morning Chronicle, arrived in the city on Saturday and will make this place her permanent home.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. E. R. Barron purchased what is known as the John Gausch property at the northwest corner of Main and Fifth streets yesterday. The old buildings now on the site will be removed and a large three-story brick business block will be erected. Julius Burkhardt, brick business block of this city have purchased of Hokah and Leonard Frey of this city have purchased the lot adjoining Mr. Barron's property on the west and will join him in erecting a three-story building, and making the new structure uniform in height and style.

A new baseball club was organized Thursday evening, which has been named "The Locals." Beams R. Englestad will manage the club and will also act as captain.

A petition will soon be put in circulation by citizens of the Twentieth ward asking that the level of George street be left as it is and that it be macadamized. There has been some talk of lowering the level of the street one foot.

"She's as handsome as a picture," "She is—no mistake!" Samson declared. "She's a good-hearted girl, too. You can tell that by her face and her voice. She's as gentle as a kitten, and about as wide awake as a weasel."

"I don't care much for girls these days," Harry answered. "I guess I'll never get married."

"Nonsense! A big, strapping, handsome young fellow like you, only 20 years old! Of course you'll get married."

"I don't see how I'm ever going to care much for another girl," the boy answered.

"There are a lot of things in the world that you don't see, boy. It's a big world and things shift around a good deal and some of our opinions are apt to move with the wind like this!"

"After all, it's home," said Samson when late in the evening they saw the lighted windows of the cabin ahead. When they had put out their horses and come in by the glowing fire, Samson lifted Sarah in his arms again and kissed her.

"I'm kind of silly, mother, but I can't help it—you look so temptin'," said Samson.

"She looks like an angel," said Harry, as he improved his chance to embrace the lady of the cabin.

"The wind has been peckin' at us all day," said Samson. "But it's worth it to get back home and see your face and this blazin' fire."

"And the good, hot supper," said Harry, as they sat down at the table. They told of the Bristolstons and their visit.

"Well, I want to know," asked Sarah. "Big house and plenty o' money! If that don't beat all!"

"That oldest girl is the thing that beats all," said Samson. "She's as handsome as a picture."

"I suppose Harry fell in love with her," Samson suggested, with a smile.

"I've lost my ability to fall in love," said the young man.

"It will come back—you see," said Sarah. "I'm going to get her to pay us a visit in the spring."

Harry went out to feed and water the horses.

"Did you get along all right?" Samson asked.

"Colonel Lukins did the chores faithfully, night and morning," Sarah answered. "His wife helped me with the sewing yesterday. She talked all day about the 'Colonel.' Mrs. Leggett, that poor woman from Ohio on the west road who has sent her little girl so often to borrow tea and sugar, came today and wanted to borrow the baby. Her baby is sick and her breasts were paining her."

CHAPTER XIV
In which Abe Returns from Vandalia and is Engaged to Ann, and three interesting Slaves Arrive at the home of Samson Traylor, who, with Harry Needles, has an Adventure of Much Importance on the Underground Road.

Again spring had come. The great meadows were awake and full of color. Late in April their green floor was oversown with golden blossoms lying close to the warming breast of the earth. There came the brave flowers of May lifting their heads to sunlight in the lengthening grasses—red and white and pink and blue—and over all the bird songs. They seemed to voice the joy in the heart of man. Sarah Traylor used to say that the beauty of the spring more than paid for the loneliness of the winter.

Abe came back from the legislature to resume his duties as postmaster and surveyor. The evening of his arrival he went to see Ann. The girl was in poor health. She had had no news of McNamee since January. Her spirit seemed to be broken. They walked together up and down the deserted street of the little village that evening. Abe told her of his life in Vandalia and of his hopes and plans.

"My greatest hope is that you will feel that you can put up with me," he said. "I would try to learn how to make you happy. I think if you would help me a little I could do it."

"I don't think I am worth having," the girl answered. "I feel like a little old woman these days."

"It seems to me that you are the only one in the world worth having," said Abe.

"If you want me to, I will marry you, Abe," said she. "I can not say that I love you, but my mother and father say that I would learn to love you, and sometimes I think it is true. I really want to love you."

They were on the bluff that overlooked the river and the deserted mill. They were quite alone looking down at the moonlit plains. A broken still came from the lips of the little young man. He wiped his eyes with his handkerchief. He took her hand in both of his and pressed it against his breast and looked down into her face and said:

"I wish I could tell you what is in my heart. There are things this tongue of mine could say, but not that. I shall show you, but I shall not try to tell you. Words are good enough for politics and even for the religion of most men, but not for this love I feel. Only in my life shall I try to express it."

He held her hand as they walked on in silence for a moment.

"About a year from now we can be married," he said. "I shall be able to take care of you then, I think. Meanwhile we will all help you to take care of yourself. You don't look well."

Y'ET MOTHER LIKES BOY WHO IS 'HANDY MAN AROUND HOUSE'

[Handicraft for Boys]
If there is anything mother appreciates, it certainly is a son who is a "handy man around the house." Somebody who always has a big ball of string ready when she wants to tie up a package, or somebody to get the cork out of the vinegar bottle, when it has been pushed in—that's what she wants.

Maybe there is a spot of candle tallow or grease on the rug in the kitchen. To take it out place a new, clean blotter over the spot and set a hot iron on the blotter for a minute or two. The blotter will absorb the melted grease, and the spot will disappear.

Five or six coffee seeds—whole, not ground—placed in the salt shaker will help keep the salt from getting hard so it cannot be shaken out.

It is an easy matter to keep your work tools—saws, chisels, hammer, etc.—from getting rusty. All you need to do when you are finished using them, is rub each one over with a rag dipped in linseed oil. Allow the oil to dry in a bin.

To get a cork out of a bottle when it has been pushed down inside, tie a half dozen or so knots in the end of a piece of string to form a cluster. Drop the string through the neck of the bottle. Turn the bottle upside down so the cork slides to the neck, and then pull the string. The cluster of knots seldom fails to pull the cork out.

If you are not already in the habit of doing so, start saving every bit of string you get hold of. String is always handy. Wind the pieces on a stick of wood, a corn cob, a large spool, or most anything such as that, and put it some place where it will not be hard to find. A drawer in the kitchen cabinet is a good place.

A nail is not a very good substitute for a clothes hook. But a nail with a thread spool slipped over it is not so bad.

Have you any good "handy man" suggestion? Send them to the editor today.

The Isolated Man

By Dr. WM. E. BARTON
Words have a queer way of drifting from their original meanings. The word "prevent," for instance, means "to go before." It is a word built up as plainly as a word can be.

shilly be constructed out of a Latin verb which means to go, and a preposition which means ahead. This was the simple meaning of the word in the days of Shakespeare and the Pilgrim Fathers.

Governor John Winthrop tells that when the Massachusetts colony had set a day of prayer for rain, "the Lord prevented our prayers"; that is, it rained before the day of prayer arrived.

The English prayer book asks that the "grace of God may 'always prevent and follow us.'" One of the psalms tells us of a sorrowful singer who "prevented the dawning" of the morning, and cried, "That does not mean that he cried so loud the sun was afraid to rise, but that he woke before morning and wept."

It has come about, and we may well be sorry for it, that the man who gets there first so often stops the other man from getting there at all. Thus we have come to use the word "prevent" not of going and of arriving first, but of hindering, whether one goes himself or not. Such a change in meaning could not have occurred in an ideally unselfish world: the man who got there first would be a helper of the next man to arrive. What a blessing it would have been, and what a fine comment on humanity, if "prevent" had come to mean "to help," in the sense of a person who has the advantage using it for another's good! The change might quite as well have been of that sort.

But there is another change worth speaking of. The root "idio" is common in Greek, and enters as a component into our words "idiom," "idiomatic," "idiosyncrasy" and others. Its meaning is "one's own" or "one's self."

Naturally, our English derivatives from this root are not all adjectives and adverbs; there is a noun descriptive of the man who acknowledges no standards but his own, and seeks no other's welfare than his own. That word, as everyone knows, is "idiot." It means nothing more nor less than a complete self-centered person.

Now, it is interesting to see how this word has modified its meaning. The isolated man who lives the isolated life, the life of complete self-hood, cannot be that of a person of much learning, so, by Jeremy Taylor's day, the word idiot was used of ignorant persons; and he said that the Scriptures were good for them as well as for the learned. But the word still changed, and by the time Blackstone wrote his great lawbook, he defined an idiot as "a natural fool that hath no understanding."

Really, if you stop to think of it, that definition is not wholly strange. If one could find a man completely satisfied with himself, completely willing to learn nothing and receive nothing from any other human being, and determined to do nothing for anyone else, there would be some justice in maintaining that the change in the meaning of the word had come no great violence to its generic idea.

A social world is no place for a completely self-centered man.

TODAY'S GREAT PERSON

April 1—Your Birthday?

George Barr Baker, a publisher, now vice-president of the Colman Publishing Company. He was born in Wyandotte, Mich., Friday, April 1, 1879. He became a reporter for the "Detroit Times," and later was editor of the "Delinquent" magazine. He is now living in New York City.

NUTS TO CRACK

We travel much, yet prisoners we are. And close confined to boot. We with the swiftest horse keep pace. Yet always go on foot—What are we?

(Answer to yesterday's: "When does a boy's hair resemble a packing box?"—When it stands on end.)

Why "April Fools' Day?"

No one has yet set up a good, sound reason why today, April 1st, should be set aside especially for the jokers and fools. The custom of making this day the time to play tricks and have a good time is an old one. Some say it was handed down from the French, who, when in 1564 they changed their New Year's Day to January 1st, thought there should be some kind of a "memorial celebration" on the old New Year's Day, April 1st.

"April Fools' Day" is common in many foreign countries. In Scotland the butt of a joke is called a "gowk," and in France they say he is an "April-fish."

SECRET CLAN HELPS STOP EXAM CHEATING

Students at the University of Chicago have adopted a brand new way of catching all those who cheat, or "crib" in examinations. A secret clan has been organized—the teachers are "for" it—and the members make it their business to catch and punish all the guilty.

You see, one does not know for sure whether or not the fellow across the aisle is a clansman, and the secrecy thus thrown about it all makes the scheme very effective.

Joe's Flower Box Business

Making window flower boxes is Joe Hamilton's pet pastime these days. And a profitable one, too, says Joe.

It was last spring that he first discovered window boxes—nice, well-built, green-painted ones—would look well in the windows of his own home. He made some. They took so well with his mother he wondered if other ladies would not like to have some for their windows, too.

So he went around and asked several of them. Result—two rush orders of three boxes each.

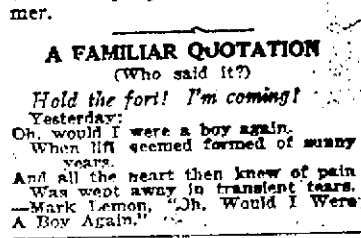

This spring Joe is going into his little manufacturing business more extensively. Already he has obtained six orders for boxes—twenty boxes in all—and more are in sight. The proceeds from all these will pay at least a third of his expenses on the trip up the lake this summer.

BRITAIN IS BLAMED FOR IRISH REIGN OF TERROR BY COMMITTEE OF 100

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The committee of 100 Catholics and Protestants live in peace and harmony and their political opinions are not primarily a matter of religion. Even in Ulster religious bigotry is not by any means wholly spontaneous, but is artificially stirred up except as gathered from documents, and admitting the report is in part correct, the commission declares, "the British army in Ireland has not only a right to be guilty of proved excesses, but a duty as American Protestants those alleged, by the Irish report, to denounce the degradation of religion atrocities, to have been committed by such pogroms as occurred in the British Empire, and to our fellow religionists both Irish and American, to which they in America and in Ulster to speak would be entitled as subjects of the plainly."

British Embassy Replies
The British embassy here gave out a statement in answer to the committee of one hundred report calling the report "biased and misleading," and "entitled to exactly the amount of weight which should be given to any judgment based entirely upon the evidence of ex parte statements and put forward for the most part by persons admittedly holding extreme views."

Using Religious Animosity
Of widespread interest will be the supplementary report of the committee dealing with the religious aspects of the question, which, despite the commission is largely made up of non-Catholics, find:

1. Outside of a part of Ulster, broken the bonds of discipline and committed unjustifiable acts of violence is not denied," the embassy statement continued, "but to say that such acts have been ordered, encouraged, or condoned by the British government is absolutely false. The interests which suffer most by acts of indiscipline are those of the government itself."

"DARDANELLA"
Everything is ready at the La Crosse theater for the presentation tonight of the McGregor company's international success, "Dardanelle," which has been awaited by local theatergoers with keen interest ever since the original announcement that the big show would appear here. Indications point to a most successful engagement and the unbroken record of empty houses which the popular production has enjoyed since leaving New York will undoubtedly obtain here tonight.

The local orchestra will be augmented by the special "Dardanelle" musicians thereby insuring a proper rendition of the many famous songs. In all likelihood the orchestra tonight will be directed by Addison Evans, composer of the famous "Dardanelle" score. Mr. Evans happens to be visiting the company at this time and has promised to direct tonight—according to a wire received yesterday.

"Dardanelle" is described as a "Jim-Jam-Jam of a jazzy lamboree." It is a gigantic combination of all styles of musical comedy, "Reviews," "Follies," "Scandals," etc., all blended into the best, happy-go-lucky entertainment ever staged. The same exquisite choros of youth and beauty arrayed gorgeous costumes, the same brilliant cast of comedians, singers and dancers and the same colorful production of artistic and beautiful scenery that was seen during its metropolitan engagement will grace the stage of the La Crosse theater tonight.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS
Special meetings will be held in the church corner of Clinton and Liberty streets the first three days of April. The meetings begin at 7:30 p. m. Friday evening, and continue at the same time, Saturday and Sunday evenings, and at 10 a. m. also the same two days.

The Conference President, Elder J. J. Woodman, with Lawrence Jorgensen and wife, Missionary Secretary, and Secretary of Schools, are bringing to us some Spirit-filled messages, cordial invitation to attend these helpful meetings, and the inspirational song service, fifteen minutes before building up souls in Christ.

FOOTPRINTS, 130 YEARS OLD, FOUND IN VOLCANIC ASHES

Tracks Made by Army Fleeing from Wrath of Kilauea, Hawaii

HILO, Island of Hawaii, T. H.—Footprints, 130 years old, of an Hawaiian army that fled from the wrath of Pele, goddess of the active volcano of Kilauea, near here, are believed to have been discovered in the Kilauea desert, south of the great crater, by Professor T. A. Jaggar, Jr., in charge of the volcano observatory.

Dr. Jaggar and his party were exploring a region far removed from any of the known, modern trails when they came upon an area thickly covered with the imprint of naked feet, all pointing in the one direction, all deep at the toes and light at the heels, indicating that the makers of the tracks had been running at top speed.

The tracks originally had been made in volcanic ash, which is strongly impregnated with sulphurous acid and gypsum and which when wet by rain, settles into a hard concrete, thus explaining the preservation of the imprints for a period believed to have stretched over more than a century and a quarter.

Hawaiian legend and history provide the other side of the story, the connection between the Kau desert tracks and the flight of the army of Keoni, king of Kau, from Pele's wrath.

Keoni led an army of three divisions against King Kamehameha, who later united all the Hawaiian islands under his sway in the year 1790. This year also recorded the last explosive eruption of Kilauea volcano. Hawaiian legend records the fact that some of Keoni's warriors rolled stones into Kilauea crater to mark their respect for the goddess of the molten lake. Whatever the reason for the outbreak, Pele rose in her wrath, and with a terrific explosive eruption, totally wiped out the second division of Keoni's army.

The footprints found in the Kau desert are believed to be those of men of the first division, who, seeing the destruction of their comrades in the rear, fled from the locality. The third division coming up, saw the bodies of the annihilated second and halted.

The area where the footprints were discovered is part of the new Kilauea national park, which will be dedicated this year, and steps already have been taken to enclose the tracks and preserve them.

Mr. Richard has an uncanny knowledge of prices. Trembling profiteers stammering out vague excuses hear him impassively quoting the price of veal chops in 1912 and the cost of a chicken in 1915. And just as firmly he adds to his clerk: "Ten days in jail for him," or "I fine that woman 10 francs."

FROM PALACE TO HOVEL IS FATE OF MANY FORMER RUSSIAN ARISTOCRATS REDUCED TO MENIAL WORK FOR LIVING

WARSAW.—Driven from palace to hovel, some of the members of the aristocracy of old Russia now are peeling potatoes or chopping wood here for a living.

Five thousand men and women and children some of whose resounding titles once brought them homage of courtiers are clustered hereafter having fled to Poland before the Bolsheviks. Helping them to help themselves is Madame Lubinoff, herself a refugee, though born a princess of one of the oldest Russian houses and the wife of the former civil governor of Warsaw.

This remarkable woman is conducting soup kitchens, sewing rooms and workshops for members of her unhappy class and taking orders from her men who once commanded the armed forces of the Russian Emperor. On her staff are admirals, generals, governors, mayors and members of the old Petrograd court, while her husband has laid aside his gubernatorial duties to become her secretary.

A beautiful woman, she hides the tragedy of her life under an optimism that is an example to the unhappy folk to whom she ministers. A woman of action, too, for she escaped from Petrograd with her two sons after fleeing her husband from the fortress of Peter and Paul and arming him with a fictitious passport that enabled him to flee to Warsaw. Here the family was reunited.

Selling virtually all she possessed to aid her fellow-countrymen, Mme. Lubinoff, organized the Warsaw branch of the Russian Red Cross, which is being aided by the American organization.

Sparing not herself, Madame Lubinoff has not spared the colony of refugees which included many of the former Russian nobility. In the soup kitchen and wood yard which she has established in a Russian orthodox church at 5 Podwal, a squalid property placed at her disposal, are working men and women of title at tasks which once servants performed for them.

In the dingy little courtyard General Oblonsky, formerly architect at the Russian court, chops wood for a living with several officers of the crack imperial guards, one of whom has lost his reason and must be watched. In a small and dirty building, Prince Meshchersky, who was master of ceremonies at the Imperial court, peels potatoes for his daily bread.

In the crowded rooms the meals are served by women of the Russian nobility. Princess Lubinoff, widow of Admiral Rukoff, who was executed by the Bolsheviks; Princess Ouchinsky, whose husband was reputed one of the richest men in Petrograd and is now cashier in the next room at 4,000 Polish marks a month, the equivalent of $4 today, and Madame Koudravitsky, widow of the Vice-Mayor of Petrograd who was put to death by the Red revolutionists.

Colonel Kesseloff of the Imperial Russian Guards runs errands for Madame Lubinoff and refugees who collapse from exhaustion while waiting for their food are attended by Mme. Caragiosoff, a former wealthy resident of Petrograd, now a nurse.

Working in an American Red Cross warehouse are 20 officers of the Imperial Guards regiment headed by M. Rickshensky, a lawyer of Kiev, who arrived in the Polish capital without underclothing or footwear. He said his sister had been killed this winter by the Bolsheviks and that the capital of the Ukraine had become a city of the dead.

Madame Lubinoff boasts a storehouse the size of an American housewife's pantry which is in charge of Michael Shramchenko, the son of the governor of Tcheruoff, who was killed by the Bolsheviks. The assistant storekeeper is Victor Hosenko who was governor of Novgorod.

PROF. GUNDERSON SUCCEEDS F. C. BRAY IN SPARTA SCHOOLS

Prairie du Chien Instructor. Will Take up New Duties in June

SPARTA, Wis.—Professor Nicholas Gunderson, head of the schools at Prairie du Chien, has been chosen to succeed Principal F. C. Bray, who closes his work in Sparta schools at the end of the school year in June. Mr. Gunderson has been at Prairie du Chien for the past twelve years. Out of about seventy applications, the school board selected Mr. Gunderson, and a contract has already been signed for his services in Sparta.

Mr. Gunderson is a graduate of the Oshkosh Normal and the university at Madison. He has taught in the country schools, and was principal of the Tubb Lake school for five years, before going to Prairie du Chien. Mr. Bray will go to Port Arkison, where a more lucrative position awaits him. He has been in Sparta for nine years.

The Wisconsin railroad commission has issued an order, fixing April 22, as the date for a public hearing on the valuation of the light and power plant at Sparta, which the city voted to buy at a special election held this spring for that purpose. The hearing will be held at Madison, instead of at Sparta, as it was at first thought. The city council has directed City Attorney Z. S. Rice to appear before the commission on behalf of the city and to get what evidence is obtainable about the condition and valuation of the local plant.

Captain William Holden, who was in command of old Company I, when it went to Waco, Texas, before sailing for France, has taken command of the 33rd Separate company of Sparta, succeeding Captain Hugh Fanning, who has resigned.

THIS THING CALLED ADVERTISING

Peter Bell 'The Short Cut' Yellow Primroses What Use Is It? The Crash Will Come

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

The poet Wordsworth pointed the finger of scorn at Peter Bell, to whom "a primrose for the river brim" was a yellow primrose, nothing more. To the mind of the poet, so gross a lack of imagination was unpardonable.

But let us adopt a Peter Bell attitude toward advertising.

Let us stick to common sense and prudence in an effort to see what it is and what use it is to us.

Let us discard high-sounding phrases about its "mysteries," "irresistible power" and "generalities" such as "printed salesmanship."

Let us seek a definite, understandable explanation of the thing, its uses and value.

What, then, is advertising? Nothing but a short-cut, to the merchant or manufacturer it is the quickest of all methods of conveying information about himself, his products or merchandise, his service and policies.

To the public it is the quickest, most convenient means of learning about these things.

To the merchant or manufacturer who is selling a worthy product at a fair price, it is a short-cut and a sales-prompter which very probably would come eventually without it, if he could be sure of living long enough.

To the merchant or manufacturer whose product or merchandise is not worthy, whose prices are not fair, it is a short-cut to bankruptcy. For the best of all advertising will fail to make up for fundamental faults elsewhere.

The truth will out; the crash will come.

Thus, to the buying public, advertising becomes a short-cut to certainty—certainty of quality, certainty of value. The advertiser knows that his is headed for failure unless the sales resulting from his advertising lead him to added good will.

You know that he is depending upon this, that in his own selfish interest he does not dare to risk losing your good opinion.

In the present situation, advertising is proving to be a short-cut to readjustment, to a lower cost of living, to thrift, to safer and surer business and living.

By believing the statements and offers of advertisers because they deserve belief, by giving our preference to consistently advertised articles because you can be sure of their merits, you will not only safeguard and advance your own interests, but throw the weight of your active influence toward a return to lower costs, assured income, surer living and more general and lasting prosperity.

BURLINGTON TRAIN AND AUTO TRUCK IN COLLISION THURSDAY

Two Occupants of Car Escape With Minor Injuries; Accident Occurs on the Causeway

An accident which might have assumed fatal proportions occurred at the intersection of the causeway and the Burlington tracks at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning when a truck driven by Leo Redisky, of Bangor, collided with a passenger train from the north pulling into the Burlington station.

A. Thomas, co-partner of the Bangor transfer line, was also in the auto at the time of the accident, both men escaping with minor injuries.

From reports of eye-witnesses of the accident, the truck was traveling at a fast rate of speed, the driver not being aware of the approaching train until they had passed over the bridge.

In an attempt to avert the impending collision with the locomotive, which at that time was traveling at a rate less than six miles an hour, the driver of the truck swerved to the left, but was caught and the two men together with the truck, were carried along the track for a distance of nearly twenty feet. The auto was virtually ruined as a result of the crash, while it was reported that the men were thrown through the windshield of the car.

With the possibility of having suffered internal injuries, the men were taken to the La Crosse hospital where they were attended by Dr. Sulter. Other than receiving cuts and bruises about the arms and head, they were not seriously injured.

PRISONER BELIEVED MAN WHO RANSACKED LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Identified by Janitor as Stranger Who Was Found in Winona Public Library Recently

Information from the local police department Friday states that the culprit alleged to be the one who entered and ransacked the high school buildings at La Crosse and Winona on recent dates was picked up by an officer of the Red Wing police force in that city on Wednesday evening.

The stranger was identified by the janitor of the public library in Winona as being the man who was seen in that building on a recent date.

According to the reports from the Red Wing police, the stranger had been noticed in a pool hall in the city and upon being suspected, was followed by a plain clothes man of the police force. Leaving the pool hall late in the evening, the stranger took a direct course towards the high school and upon nearing the school discovered that he was being "chased." The man, whose name is not known here as yet, was immediately put under arrest. It was believed that he had intended to commit an act similar to those done in Winona and La Crosse.

It was stated here that he would be taken to Winona where the finger prints taken by Chief Webster of the La Crosse department, would be compared with those taken of the alleged ransacker. He is at present held in Winona.

Not For Him to Say

"An' where do I go when the shellin' starts?" asked the new arrival in the front, nervously.

Contracts between workers of three unions and their employers in La Crosse expired Thursday night. Meetings of the three unions concerned, the painters, teamsters and brewery workers, are to be held to consider new contracts.

It is said that reductions will be submitted by the employers to the various unions.

The brewery workers have been receiving $30 a week for brewers, $27.50 a week for bottlers, and $19.50 a week for all women help. The scale for teamsters has been fifty cents an hour for drivers and forty-five cents an hour for helpers. The painters have been receiving $7.50 an hour. For the time being the workers will operate under the old contracts.

The brewery workers will meet tonight to discuss the proposition of the employers. The teamsters met Thursday night and will meet again in a few days. The painters also will meet shortly.

Churchman Eacked Charles

BUDAPEST, March 31.—By The Associated Press.—March 31. Rumor of the dethronement of Hapsburg was, according to the best information obtainable here, the preponderant influence in urging former Emperor Charles to attempt to regain the Hungarian throne.

Bishop Rott was in Prangins, Charles' Swiss refuge, a week ago to christen the ex-royal's new-born daughter. He persuaded the latter to return to Hungary immediately. It is alleged, declaring the pro-Hapsburg propaganda could not be effective without the former emperor's presence there. The success of King Constantine of Greece, despite the opposition of the allies, is declared to have been instigated by the bishop. It is also alleged that the anti-Semitic organization, "Awakening Hungary," had an important share in the plot. Its president, Deputy Szegedinsky, has been placed under virtual arrest.

MASONIC BANQUET THURSDAY EVENING NOTABLE SUCCESS

Over Six Hundred Served at Dinner on Occasion of Opening of New Club Rooms

Serving over six hundred people at a banquet on the occasion of the opening of the new club rooms, one of the largest events in the history of the Masonic lodge here was held at the building, Eighth and Main streets, on Thursday evening.

The dinner was served at 6:30 in the evening after which members with their friends retired to the lodge rooms where a delightful program arranged by the committee in charge was rendered. Throughout the time of the dinner, the gathering was favored with numerous selections by the La Crosse High School orchestra under the direction of Miss Stella Trane and was a feature which proved to be highly entertaining. Cigars, cigars and candles were passed out as members with their guests left the dining hall.

Following the banquet dinner, members of the lodge with their families and friends were entertained in the lodge rooms of the building. The program given was as follows: Selection, High School orchestra; introductory remarks, P. G. M. J. F. Koster; solo, Miss Trane; selection, Masonic chorists; address, P. G. S. W. John Langdon; solo, Mrs. Rossbach; reading, John O'Brien; selection, Masonic chorists; remarks, H. P. A. A. Langsty; selection, High School orchestra.

ROSE SPAFFORD IS WINNER OF EAGLES' BAZAAR GRAND PRIZE

Sewing Machine Given to Lucky Person; More Prizes Tonight and Saturday

The Eagles' bazaar "stayed on" on the opening day and night. The big show will be repeated again Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening.

Promoters of the bazaar say that nearly every woman in La Crosse will have a new apron as a result of the rush to buy the aprons on sale at the bazaar. The apron booth was one of the main attractions Thursday afternoon and evening and bids fair to hold its laurels for popularity the remaining two days of the bazaar.

The grand prize, a sewing machine donated by the Dierflinger company, was awarded to Rose Spafford, 1605 Badger street, Thursday night. Other prize winners were: Joseph Lapiz, ton of coal, Carzill Coal company; Bert Lewis, $10 order of photographs; H. H. Mott; W. L. Miller, $5 man's hat; La Crosse Hat company; Ed Zenker, half ton of coal, Eberhart Coal company; Tom Schafer, $10 laundry order, Ideal Wet Wash company.

Short Story THE RED SERPENT

BY KATE EDMONDS

After three years in China, Lawrence came home with a few blades of care in his keen face, scattered threads of silver in his dark hair and an anxious look in his eye.

He took Estelle's small hands in his big ones and looked down into her expectant face. "Failed, dear," was all he said.

"Failed?" the color drained out of her cheeks. "You poor old dear, she added, patting his broad forehead. "We will begin over again. Just think how young we are!"

"Listen, dearest of girls," he said down and drew her to a seat beside him. "I had excellent chances out there—senior clerk in the Boston bank with a fine chance of being sent to the New York house. And I lost the chance. This is the way it happened: I took a short vacation last summer—just a few miles up the Huang-pu river—good fishing and did my own cooking. Along came a rich Chinese merchant with his train of servants; somehow he managed to tumble into the river and would have been drowned, only I fished him out. His terrified servants scattered and by the time they got back the old man had been died off by yours truly, but I somehow took a heasty cold—couldn't get rid of it. Had pneumonia, and have been in the hospital for months—with the result that I'll have to live in the open air for several years and—what's the use? It's the end of the world for me!"

This story face turned away from her loving caresses.

"And the man whose life you saved?" she asked after a while.

He nodded. "Come to the hospital to see me and make a long speech of thanks. Also invited a poem he had composed on my heroism." He smiled wearily and the girl was alarmed at the change in him. He put a hand in his pocket and drew out a package wrapped in soft tissue paper. "The old beggar gave me this as a keepsake. It is just a bundle; let me put it on your wrist." He opened a lacquered box and took from it a bracelet elaborately carved from red coral. It was in the form of a serpent, and the open mouth and deadly forked tongue were delicately carved with the fairy touch of a master carver. The clasp was of solid gold and there were Chinese ideographs scratched upon it.

"It is quite wonderful, Donald. Did he tell you the meaning of these characters?" The girl's lovely face was wistfully curious. She so wanted him to talk—to see like his old self once more. This stern, white-lipped man, with the thin face and graying hair, was different from the stalwart young lover who had sailed away so bravely three years ago.

Lawrence shrugged his shoulders. "Something about seven years—and gratitude—I skipped all the rest. I was pretty dazed about the future."

"You are not sorry you saved his life, are you, Donald?"

"Of course not," he declared, and she knew that he spoke the truth. There was an echo of the old confident ring in his tone. "But Estelle, we've got to face the facts—I'll have to go away into the mountains somewhere—a dry climate and work my way out again. I may be an old man by the time I earn enough to support us both."

"Then I shall go with you and we will work together," she said, and he could not turn her from this purpose. He will arrange to do some work at home, and I can take care of you and see that you do not take more cold—and you will need me," tears were in her eyes now.

So at last he gave in to her pleading and they were married and went into the Adirondacks together. Lawrence took charge of the palatial "cottage" of a millionaire and there were many months of idleness when he bemoaned their exile. "You should be nearer your friends—nearer civilization," he often said. "You have buried yourself alive with me!"

She smiled bravely. "If you were in my place—wouldn't you count the balance on your side?"

He could not be gloomy after that and she could see that he was getting better. Another year might restore him to full health. One day he came upon her sewing on the doorstep in the pale spring sunshine. "Why do you always wear the red serpent?" he asked, looking down at the bracelet.

She blushed. "I am so foolish, Donald. I have thought the old man was grateful and that perhaps it is a good luck charm—so I have worn it often, but the clasp is out of order. Can you fix it?"

He took it and sat down beside her. The gold clasp was loose and suddenly came off in his fingers. He looked stupidly at the exposed end of the bracelet—the bracelet was a hollow coil and from it poured a little stream of blazing diamonds, seven in all. Further search revealed soft patches with Chinese characters brushed upon it. Lawrence slowly read the hidden message: "The gods have decreed that I am to live seven years longer—you have given me back those precious seven years and I give you seven precious stones, one for each year of the life you saved."

"Gratitude is a jewel," muttered Lawrence, "but steadfast faith and love are jewels, too—I am a very rich man!"

Estelle kissed the red serpent which had entered their place of banishment and turned it into an Eden of new-found happiness.

"You are sure that there is no mistake about it," asked Estelle, still unbelieving that this good fortune could be theirs.

"We will write to the old fellow," declared Donald, and he went in and sat down at his desk. Months afterward there came an answer from the Chinese merchant—a big box covered with strange Chinese characters, and this, when opened, displayed a beau-himself and his children," it continued. "The plaintiff having challenged the paternity of the child, the defendant comes to its protection and to the defense of its legitimacy. That is her duty and she is right in her claim. She vigorously champions the child's cause and this is expected from any mother. The interests of this defendant and the plaintiff in this case are to a great extent the same."

The three Stillman children, other than the infant whose paternity is attacked, "are of sufficient age to determine with whom they desire to reside during the pendency of the action," Justice Marschauser said. "Their preference should control in the circumstances now presented. While the children are with the mother or in her charge, she must provide for their schooling and other necessary expenses. I believe to meet these expenses the alimony should be allowed in the sum of $7,500 a month."

PUPPET SHOW ON APRIL NINTH IS REAL TREAT

The puppet show to be brought here on April ninth by the Community council is an unusual entertainment and a rare treat. The company comes from New York and is called Lillian Owen's Marionettes. It is under the direction of Laurence Clarke. A children's matinee will be given in the Normal auditorium in the afternoon and a performance designed for adults in the evening.

No child will miss a single incident of the well remembered story of "Jack and the Beanstalk," the puppet dramatization of which will be presented in the afternoon. Jack, the Giant, Old White-face, the cow, Jack's mother and the Giant's mother will all appear on the stage. The beanstalk will grow up before the very eyes. Jack will conduct his hazardous adventures in the giant's country, not omitting the thrilling moment when he trips up the clumsy Giant.

"Hynd Horn" to be given in the evening is a tender, whimsical, musical drama full of good humor. It abounds in marvels that will delight grownups as Jack will children. It deals with the adventures of the hero Hynd Horn in a strange country whose king has passed a law that all his subjects must speak in rhyme. Hynd Horn breaks the law, is separated from his sweetheart and banished to the high storm. A real ocean storm occurs on the stage, the ship is tossed about, thunder roars, lightning flashes, the wind howls while Hynd Horn sings songs to his lost princess. But tragic fate awaits the gallant hero and the play ends with beautiful tinkling music and a wedding.

MAN ARRESTED FOR CHECK FORGERY BY POLICE THURSDAY

Edward Baier Passes Twenty-five Dollar Paper at Continental Clothing Store

Identified when articles purchased at the time were recovered, Edward Baier, Orange, California, admitted at Central police station Thursday passing a "bad" check for the amount of $25 at the Continental clothing store last Tuesday. The check was returned to the bank Wednesday.

Following the description of the man given to the police, Baier was picked up here Thursday afternoon and taken to Central station. A search of his suit case found at a local hotel yielded a pair of socks purchased at the clothing store at the time of the forgery, and which were later identified as those purchased at the Continental store.

Baier says his home is in Orange, California. He was arraigned before County Judge Brinley this morning, pleaded guilty and was held under $1,500 bail for circuit court. He probably will be arraigned before Judge Higbee on Saturday.

ANTIS CIRCULATING PAPERS FOR RECALL ELECTION IN DAKOTA

Recall Aimed at Three Non-Partisan League State Officials

ALSO SEEK TO CHANGE INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM

Bond Issues Planned to Clear up Financial Affairs

DEVILS LAKE, N. D.—Petitions calling for a recall election against three state officials elected with Non-partisan league endorsement, will be circulated soon. It was said Friday following the decision Thursday night of the anti-Nonpartisan convention here in ordering such action. The election will be held on or before November 8, 1921.

In addition to seeking the recall of Governor Lynn J. Frazier, William L. Lake, attorney general and J. N. Lamm, commissioner of agriculture and labor, who comprise the state industrial commission, the anti-Nonpartisans will have submitted to the voters at the same time a series of constitutional amendments, which would change the state owned industrial program.

Principal among these would be liquidation of the bank of North Dakota and abandonment of the state owned industries with the exception of the Grand Forks mill and elevator. A bond issue of $5,000,000 to retire outstanding bonds and pay all debts and liabilities of the bank of North Dakota is provided for.

Another bond issue of $2,000,000 would be used to clear up the affairs of the state mill and elevator association and also provide for the completion of the mill at Grand Forks, while a third issue of $250,000 would retire the debts of the Home Builders' association.

It is also proposed to limit the bonded indebtedness of the state to $7,500,000.

R. A. Nestor, Minn. republican, is the choice of the anti-Nonpartisans for governor. Svenhagen Johnson, Grand Forks, chairman of the democratic state central committee, will make the race for attorney general. An American Legion man was recommended by the convention to be selected later as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Women will play a prominent part in the proposed recall. They were granted recognition yesterday by the convention which voted to increase the membership of the committee of 21 to 42 by adding 21 women. The committee of 21 called the convention, which resulted in the recall call being ordered. The committee of 42 will select the candidate for commissioner of agriculture and map out other campaign plans.

Reports from Bismarck are to the effect that the Nonpartisan league legislative committee will institute a counter recall against independent state officials.

"Flow, plant and prosper," was the slogan given to the Amalgamated Independent voters by Mr. O'Connor. The Nonpartisan recall slogan is "Summer fallow and fight."

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR FATHER NORTON TODAY IN WAUKON

WAUKON, Iowa.—The remains of Monsignor Norton, whose death occurred Monday last, lay in state in St. Patrick's church from Thursday morning until Friday morning when the funeral services were held. High religious masses were celebrated by Monsignor Haxthausen of Lansing, Archbishop Keane of Dubuque directed the service, and many priests were in attendance. The Waukon Commercial club attended the services in a body.

The Waterloo consolidated schools have selected plans for their new consolidated school building submitted by Architect Karl P. Saum of Dubuque. Mr. Saum and Gabre Pedersen, president of the board, were in Waukon Thursday in consultation with County Superintendent Deek, who accepted the plans, and detailed drawings and blueprints will be made at once. The work of construction will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible, although it will be impossible to complete the structure in time for the opening of the schools next fall. The building is to be one of the most modern and up-to-date high schools in the country.

GUERNSEY SALE AT WEST SALEM ONE OF RECORD EVENTS

Over Twenty Thousand Dollars Worth of Fine Cattle Sold in One Day

(BY W. H. SPIEGELBERGER)

ONE of the best livestock sales ever staged in Western Wisconsin was put on by the La Crosse County Guernsey Breeders' association at West Salem March 30th.

This sale again proved that purebred cattle are worth more than grades as the average price for the purebred was $233.00, a total of $17,500.00, while the 80 head of grades averaged only $90.25, or a total of $7,220.00.

Buyers from all parts of the state and neighboring states thronged the pavilion all morning inspecting the stock and making their selection to bid on.

The sale was scheduled for 1:30 but at 1:00 o'clock every seat and all of the available standing room in the aisles of the pavilion was crowded to capacity, and many could not get into the big new sales pavilion. It was estimated that about 1,000 people were present.

Many cattle were bought by men from Illinois, Iowa, and Minnesota, as well as Wisconsin. At 1:30 sharp, Mr. J. W. Griswold, sales manager, opened the sale with a few brief remarks concerning the dairy industry at this time and gave the terms of the sale.

Col. Oliver Johnson, Col. J. R. Love and Col. McNeil were the auctioneers, and J. R. Keenan, fieldman for the Wisconsin Agriculturalist, and Ray Vergeront of Viruqua assisted in the ring.

Number 40 in the catalog, a beautiful type heifer was the first to be brought into the ring and as soon as the show was on, bidding was very brisk and in about two minutes L. T. Lee of Holmen was made the new owner of the heifer at $205.00.

$465 Top Price
The top of the sale was $465 for No. 45 in the catalog, Holstein's Queen of Sparta No. 92453, a two year old heifer of excellent quality and breeding with high record ancestors, consigned by W. H. Hancher of Sparta. William Brandau, of Wilton was the successful bidder. The bidding was very keen all over the sale. The last of the 65 purebreds sold at $275.00.

The grade sale was called at 7:00 sharp and 75 head were sold at machine gun speed. In just two and a half hours, the 75 head were all sold.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY TO PRESENT CLEVER PLAYLET SATURDAY

Poka Gama Society to Put on "What Happened to Jones"—a Snappy Skit

On Saturday night, April 2, at 8 o'clock, in the High School auditorium, the Poka Gama Dramatic Society will present the clever three-act comedy, "What Happened to Jones," by George I. Broadhurst.

This play is full of thrills and humor from start to finish. The opening scene is the home of Professor Ebenezer Goodly, who is awaiting the arrival of his brother, Anthony Goodly, D.D., an Australian bishop.

The professor goes to a prize fight with Richard Heatherly, his prospective son-in-law. The police answer a riot call and interrupt the fight. In the attempt to escape, the professor falls down a water spout and performs several other peculiar stunts. He is followed to his home by Jones, traveling salesman who sells hymn books and playing cards as a side line.

He assumes the name and role of Ebenezer's brother, the bishop. In this way he becomes mixed up, along with the professor and Richard, in several complicated affairs. All of the conditions and circumstances arising out of these escapades are satisfactorily settled in the closing scene of the comedy.

If you want to see the conclusion of a real set of complicated, domestic troubles, get your tickets now and see this play. Tickets may be secured from members of the society. The admission is 35 cents.

The cast follows:

Jones Eldon Mulder
Ebenezer Goodly Alex Patonch

William Higbee Valmor Rohde

PROPOSE HOSPITAL FOR SHELL-SHOCKED YANKS AT MENDOTA

Erection of New Buildings on State Land at Farwell Point is Plan

MADISON, Wis.—A plan for a hospital for the treatment of soldiers suffering from shell shock without the half million dollar expense contemplated by the Huber bill, was offered to the joint finance committee of the legislature Thursday by Dr. W. E. Lorenz, superintendent of Mendota hospital. One hundred and eighteen insane soldiers are now being treated at Mendota.

Dr. Lorenz proposed, if money is not available to carry out the Huber plan that the state build one fire proof hospital building with room for sixty beds, at a cost of approximately $100,000 and several wooded pavilions, at a cost of about $75,000. The fire proof building would take care of the actual bed cases, he said, while the others could be cared for in the pavilions.

He also suggested that the hospital be located at Farwell Point, on Lake Mendota, and bear that name to distinguish it from the present asylum. The state now owns the land at Farwell Point, which is about 5,000 yards from Mendota, near enough for one administration force to operate, both institutions.

ANTIS CIRCULATING PAPERS FOR RECALL ELECTION IN DAKOTA

Recall Aimed at Three Non-Partisan League State Officials

ALSO SEEK TO CHANGE INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM

Bond Issues Planned to Clear up Financial Affairs

DEVILS LAKE, N. D.—Petitions calling for a recall election against three state officials elected with Non-partisan league endorsement, will be circulated soon, it was said Friday following the decision Thursday night of the anti-Nonpartisan convention here in ordering such action. The election will be held on or before November 8, 1921.

In addition to seeking the recall of Governor Lynn J. Frazier, William L. Burke, attorney general and J. N. Jansen, commissioner of agriculture and labor, who comprise the state industrial commission, the anti-Nonpartisan will have submitted to the voters at the same time a series of constitutional amendments, which would change the state owned industrial program.

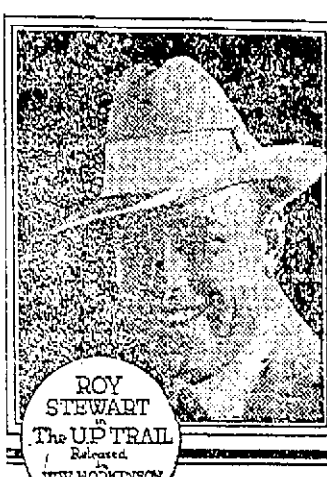

Principal among these would be liquidation of the Bank of North Dakota and abandonment of the state owned industries with the exception of the Grand Forks mill and elevator. A bond issue of $2,000,000 to retire outstanding bonds and pay all debts and liabilities of the Bank of North Dakota is provided for.

Another bond issue of $2,000,000 would be used to clear up the affairs of the state mill and elevator association and also provide for the completion of the mill at Grand Forks, while a third issue of $250,000 would retire debts of the Home Builders' association.

It is also proposed to limit the bonded indebtedness of the state to $7,750,000.

R. A. Nestos, Minn., republican, is the choice of the anti-Nonpartisan for governor. Sven Johnson, Johnson, Grand Forks, chairman of the democratic state central committee, will make the race for attorney general. An American Legion man was recommended by the convention to be selected later as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Women will play a prominent part in the proposed recall. They were granted recognition yesterday by the convention which voted to increase the membership of the committee of 21 to 42 by adding 21 women. The committee of 21 called the convention, which resulted in the recall election.

"The F. P. Trail" plays the Riviera today and Saturday.

call being ordered. The committee of 42 will select the candidate for commissioner of agriculture and labor and other campaign plans.

Reports from his market are to the effect that the Nonpartisan league legislative committee will institute a counter recall against independent state officials.

"Now, plant and prosper," was the slogan given to the Amalgamated Independent voters by Mr. O'Connor. The Nonpartisan recall slogan is "Summer fallow and fight."

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR FATHER NORTON TODAY IN WAUKON

WAUKON, Iowa.—The remains of Monsignor Norton, whose death occurred Monday, last, lay in state in St. Patrick's church from Thursday morning until Friday morning when the funeral services were held. High requiem masses were celebrated by Monsignor Haxamer of Lansing, Archbishop Keane of Dubuque delivered the sermon, and many priests were in attendance. The Waukon Commercial club attended the services in a body.

The Waterville consolidated schools have selected plans for their new consolidated school building submitted by Architect Karl P. Saum of Dubuque. Mr. Saum and Gabe Peterson, president of the board, were in Waukon Thursday in consultation with County Superintendent Deek, who accepted the plans, and detailed drawings and blueprints will be made at once. The work of construction will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible, although it will be impossible to complete the structure in time for the opening of the schools next fall. The building is to be one of the most modern and up-to-date high schools in the country.

GUERNSEY SALE AT WEST SALEM ONE OF RECORD EVENTS

Over Twenty Thousand Dollars Worth of Fine Cattle Sold in One Day

(BY W. E. SPRUELLER)

ONE of the best livestock sales ever staged in Western Wisconsin was put on by the La Crosse County Guernsey Breeders' association at West Salem March 30th.

This sale again proved that purebred cattle are worth more than grades, as the average price for the purebred was $233.00, a total of $13,250.00, while the 80 head of grades averaged only $90.25, or a total of $7,220.00.

Buyers from all parts of the state and neighboring states thronged the pavilion all morning inspecting the stock and making their selection to bid on.

The sale was scheduled for 1:30 but at 1:00 o'clock every seat and all of the available standing room in the aisles of the pavilion was crowded to capacity, and many could not get into the big new sales pavilion. It was estimated that about 1,000 people were present.

Many cattle were bought by men from Illinois, Iowa, and Minnesota, as well as Wisconsin. At 1:30 sharp, Mr. W. W. Griswold, sales manager, opened the sale with a few brief remarks concerning the dairy industry at this time and gave the terms of the sale.

Col. Oliver Johnson, Col. J. R. Love and Col. McNeil were the auctioneers, and J. R. Keenan, Fieldman for the Wisconsin Agriculturist, and Ray Vergerant of Virginia assisted in the ring.

Number 40 in the catalog, a beautiful type heifer was the first to be brought into the ring and as soon as Col. Johnson began to call for bids the show was on. Bidding was very brisk and in about two minutes L. T. Lee of Holmen was made the new owner of the heifer at $205.00.

$465 Top Price

The top of the sale was $465 for No. 45 in the catalog, Holstein's (Queen of Sparta No. 92153), a two year old heifer of excellent quality and breeding with high record ancestors, consigned by W. H. Handlett of Sparta. William Branden, of Wilton was the successful bidder. The bidding was very keen all over and the 65 purebreds sold at $274.00.

The grade sale was called at 7:00 sharp and 78 head were bid off at machine gun speed. In just two and a half hours, the 78 head were all sold.

The list of buyers and prices paid follows:

DRAMATIC SOCIETY TO PRESENT CLEVER PLAYLET SATURDAY

Poka Gama Society to Put on "What Happened to Jones" — A Snappy Skit

On Saturday night, April 2, at 8 o'clock, in the High School auditorium, the Poka Gama Dramatic society will present the clever three-act comedy, "What Happened to Jones," by George H. Broadhurst.

This play is full of thrills and humor from start to finish. The opening scene is the home of Professor Ebenezer Goodly, who is awaiting the arrival of his brother, Anthony Goodly, D.D., an Australian bishop.

The professor goes to a prize fight with Richard Heatherly, his prospective son-in-law. The police answer a riot call and interrupt the fight. In the attempt to escape, the professor falls down a water spout and performs several other peculiar stunts. He is followed to his home by Jones, traveling salesman who sells hymn books and playing cards as a side line. He assumes the name and role of Ebenezer's brother, the bishop. In this way he becomes mixed up, along with the professor and Richard, in several complicated affairs. All of the conditions and circumstances arising out of these escapades are satisfactorily settled in the closing scene of the comedy.

If you want to see the conclusion of a real set of complicated, domestic troubles, get your tickets now and see this play. Tickets may be secured from members of the society. The admission is 25 cents.

The cast follows:

PROPOSE HOSPITAL FOR SHELL-SHOCKED YANKS AT MENDOTA

Erection of New Buildings on State Land at Farwell Point is Plan

MADISON, Wis.—A plan for a hospital for the treatment of soldiers suffering from shell shock without the half million dollar expense contemplated by the Huber bill was offered to the joint finance committee of the legislature Thursday by Dr. W. E. Lorenz, superintendent of Mendota hospital. One hundred and eighteen insane soldiers are now being treated at Mendota.

Dr. Lorenz proposed, if money is not available to carry out the Huber plan that the state build one fire proof hospital building with room for sixty beds, at a cost of approximately $300,000 and several wooded pavilions, at a cost of about $75,000. The fire proof building would take care of the actual bed cases, he said, while the others could be cared for in the pavilions.

He also suggested that the hospital be located at Farwell Point, on Lake Mendota, and bear that name to distinguish it from the present asylum. The state now owns the land at Farwell Point, which is about 3,000 yards from Mendota, near enough for one administration force to operate, both institutions.

MADISON, Wis.—J. P. Kernon, of Superior, was reappointed a member of the grain and warehouse commission this morning by Governor John J. Blaine for the term which ends February 1, 1924. The salary is $2,400 annually.

All members of the commission are residents of Superior, the only city affected by the activities of the commission, which superintends the inspection, weighing, and grading of all grain handled in Superior. Confirmation is not required by the senate.

LODI MAN PROPOSES REPEAL OF TEACHERS' PENSION FUND LAW

Entire Subject of Retirement
Legislation to be Fought
Out in Committee

NEW BILL IS FAVORED BY WISCONSIN EDUCATORS

Special Committee Files Report on Present System

By FRED L. HOLMES
MADISON, Wis.—The entire field of the Teachers' Retirement Fund legislation will be fought out before a committee of the legislature, Assembly, by a Robert Caldwell, Lodi, has presented his bill for the repeal of the Teachers' Retirement Fund law and for the repayment to teachers of the funds which they have contributed. The committee has been investigating the Teachers' Retirement Fund law and has presented a report on the bill providing for an increase of benefits under the retirement fund act. Upwards of 1,200 petitions have already been received in the legislature from teachers and others interested in education, favoring the new bill which was introduced in the legislature by a special investigating committee.

The fight in the legislature, however, will be close. Assemblyman Caldwell believes that probably a majority of the house are in favor of repealing the Teachers' Retirement Fund law. Senator Amos, chairman of the committee, which has had the new retirement fund law in charge, says that unless the retirement fund law is modified it had better be repealed. The special investigating committee, which has been investigating the matter has just presented to the committee having all bills on the subject under consideration, a report in which the committee declares: That a State Retirement System be established to be administered by an Annuity Board appointed by and responsible to the Governor, with the assistance of separate boards representing the teachers in the Public Schools, the Normal Schools and the Universities. That the teachers in all of the educational institutions of the state be included in the retirement system. That benefits at retirement be provided which bear a proper relation to the age, service and compensation of the teacher. That such benefits, on the service had been performed after payment of service thereafter rendered, be provided by a system of deposits made currently by the teachers and by the state on account of the teachers' contributions. That the deposits made by each teacher be allocated to provide the benefit for that teacher and be not subject to forfeiture either at death or withdrawal, or by failure to comply with age or service requirements. That all such benefits be paid from a reserve fund which shall at all times maintain assets equal to the net present value of the future benefits, and not less than the reserves required for similar benefits payable by domestic life insurance companies. That all teachers who were granted annuities under the Teachers' Insurance and Retirement Fund Law be assured the continuance of their annuities without reduction, and all teachers who were assessed under that law be assured that they shall receive annuities not less than they were promised under that law. That benefits be provided by the state on account of service rendered prior to the establishment of the new system. That such benefits be paid from deposits by the state if the service had been performed after the establishment of the new system. That a Contingent Fund be created and maintained by state appropriations from which the payments required under VI and VII shall be made. If it is found impossible to provide for the adequate support and maintenance of the Teacher's Insurance and Retirement Fund, the law should be repealed, and the funds liquidated.

What Size Do You Take

Now people understand the meanings of the numbers and sizes on articles of clothing, says London Answers. In hats and caps the size is one-half the sum total of the long and short diameters of the head. In other words if your head measures 22 3/4 inches, your size in hats is 6 7/8. The size in gloves indicates the number of inches round the knuckles when the hand is closed. The length in inches of your foot is the "number" you take in socks. In women's hose the length of the leg is usually three times the length of the foot.

What Does the Woman of Today Want?

A Home or a Career?

Love or Fame?

Children or Independence?

Writing in the new April issue of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL, Mrs. Rinehart says: "Every woman has four choices: To marry for love; to marry without love; to stay at home and exhaust herself in family service; to go out and earn." Maybe you have made your choice. Would you do the same again? And how about your daughters? In the April HOME JOURNAL there are four big features that will help you to make your choice between a Home and a Career:

How to Become a Nurse

Many girls, many women, are finding opportunity for service and livelihood in nursing. What is their chance for success? How must they go about training? Where should they do their work? How much is the pay? What is their future? These questions and others are answered in an authoritative article in the April HOME JOURNAL by Ida F. Butler, of the American Red Cross, herself a nurse for twenty years.

How to Become a Writer

Thousands of women are trying to build careers in the Writing Game. Some succeed; many fail. Why? What ability does it take to become a successful author? Is writing a primrose path of big money and great fame? Is story-telling an easy way to fortune—or a rocky road full of disappointments and really hard work? Elizabeth Jordan tells the answer in the April HOME JOURNAL, from her own experience and success in writing.

How to Become a Singer

Almost every woman who has achieved success in amateur singing likes to imagine herself as another Geraldine Farrar—another Mary Garden—another Tetrazzini. What training is necessary for the Grand Opera star? How can you know whether your voice is worth cultivating or not? Kathleen Howard, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, with a record of operatic success abroad, gives advice in the April HOME JOURNAL.

The Home and the Bride

The April HOME JOURNAL is also the bride's book. The girl who is to be married in June is thinking about her trousseau—here are pages of fascinating new fashions for the bride, the bride's mother, the bridesmaids, and the little flower girls and pages. There is even a page of fashions for the bridegroom. And there is an article telling every detail of the formal wedding at home or in the church—what everyone does, who pays the bills.

Love in Hollywood

A perfectly delightful story of the moving-picture world, starts in the April HOME JOURNAL; it is by Earl Derr Biggers. Other fiction includes The Barbens of Barben-Lacy, a tale of an antique dealer's adventures, by Horace Annesley Vachell; The Bird of Paradise, by Louise Kennedy Mabie; The Way Wives Are, by Lucian Cary; and stories by E. Phillips Oppenheim and Grace Sartwell Mason.

For the Home Builder

there are two unusual houses that may be built now and enlarged when money is more plentiful; and also some new and interesting bungalows.

For the Woman Who Sews

there is Fashion's latest whim of handmade fruits and flowers, with full directions for making; also a beautiful bedspread of Irish crochet, and linens with fascinating Old World designs.

For the Housekeeper

there is inspiration in new recipes for desserts, for fish dinners, for unusual salads. She will delight in the Disappearing Range; she will want to try the new Unfired Glass Painting; she will be keen for the Time and Dollar Savers. Also there are Plays for Open-Air Theatres, Decorative Table China, and beautiful pictures in full color by Jules Guerin, Charles Chapman and George Wright.

LEGISLATURE TAKES RECESS TILL AFTER SPRING ELECTIONS

Business at Standstill During the Coming Week With Only a Few Hearings Scheduled

MADISON, Wis.—Spring elections and personal business will cause the legislature during the coming week, which is expected to mark the turning point of the session in its consideration of business. The legislature will take a vacation until next Wednesday, members returning home to vote and the forty-four farmers in both houses being called home by the urgent requirements of agriculture.

Business will be practically at a standstill during the whole week, with less than a quorum expected in either house. Committees chairmaned last Thursday and Friday, with the understanding that there will be little work. The legislature is expected back for real work on April 12, and the big problems of the session will be taken up for solution at that time, but it is expected that difficulty will be encountered in keeping the farmer members in Madison because of the demands at home.

Hope to Speed Up Work
Some of the legislators are hopeful that they will be able to hurry up the session when they return, with most of the members anxious to take advantage of the spring and summer months in taking care of their own business. More of an impetus to completing the work before them is expected now that the winter months have gone.

Three months of the session will have been taken up when business is resumed again with a full attendance on April 12. The constructive work remains to be done and will take at least another three months, it is believed, which will run the session into the latter part of June or early in July.

Few Hearings Next Week
There will be few committee hearings in the house next week. There seems to be a sentiment in the legislature to get the appropriation measures out of the way and to settle the tax problem as soon as possible. It is possible that with the passing down of appropriations it may not be necessary to increase the taxes of the state. That Governor Blaine is watching the appropriations with a critical eye is indicated by the fact that the industrial commission appropriation bill has been recalled by the joint finance committee, after it had passed both houses, and will now be subjected to further revision.

One of the big bills which is expected to come into the legislature next week is a measure to abolish the present railroad commission and to create a public utility commission of three members. The fact that Governor Blaine has made no appointments to the railroad commission in the place of John S. Allen, whose term of office expired in February, is taken to mean that the governor will wait the disposition of this proposed bill in the legislature. This bill will be offered by Assemblyman F. J. Peterson, Milwaukee. It will place a limitation on the earnings of public utilities and if passed would make it possible for Governor Blaine to reappoint an entire republican public utility commission.

Governor Blaine has signed the appropriation for the state board of health. This bill carries an appropriation of approximately $340,000 annually. In the bill is a provision for carrying on child welfare in the state. Scores of petitions, hundreds of letters and telegrams from women's organizations in the state, asking for the signing of the bill were received by the executive office. These petitions and letters indicated that under one year of age may be annually saved in Wisconsin. The executive approval means that this child welfare work will be continued in a plan more extended than heretofore.

"NO ACCIDENTS" FOR APRIL IS SLOGAN OF GET-TOGETHER CLUB

Local Employees of Milwaukee Road Invite Co-operation of People During April

The local employees of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, members of the La Crosse Terminal Get-together club, will endeavor to make the month of April a "no accident" month, according to announcement by the chairman of the club Thursday afternoon.

In their campaign for a "no accident" month, the club has set up posters about the premises and offices of the company, that every employee might be reminded at all times of the slogan and to be particularly careful in doing his work.

For assurance of the success of this cause, the club invites the co-operation of the schools and churches and all of the people of the city of La Crosse, many of whom pass over railroad tracks daily. It is the earnest desire of the organization that persons connected in any way with the railroad as well as the public be especially precautions during the month that their slogan for a "no accident" month may be realized.

BADGER DOG TAX LAW A MONEY-MAKER FOR THE COUNTIES--OLSON

Declares Farmers Wouldn't Oppose the Measure if they Understood Provisions

MADISON, Wis.—The dog tax law, passed at the 1919 session of the legislature and the subject of much protest on the part of the farmers, has been a tremendous money-maker for the counties of the state according to figures presented to the legislative joint finance committee by Wm. Olson, chairman of the assembly agricultural committee.

Last year the owners of dogs paid into the state treasury $355,000, of this amount 15 per cent, or $53,250, was kept by the state and the balance will be returned to the counties after deducting damage claims allowed stockmen.

Each county will receive all money paid in tax after deducting 15 per cent in the state and the damages done by dogs in the county. The damage claims so far are small and each county will receive a substantial sum, Olson said.

The new bill will produce much less money for the state. The old law taxed made dogs $4 and females $2. The new law taxes males $1 and females $2.

Figures were presented to committee showing 6,000 sheep were killed by dogs in Wisconsin last year. There were numerous dogs and other stock killed, also witnesses said.

"The farmers would not be so anxious to repeal this dog law if they fully understood it," Olson told the committee members. "Most of them believe all the money goes to the state and few understand that the dog tax money can be used to pay damages caused by dogs to livestock. If they understood this feature, the law would be less objectionable."

IS ANYTHING NEW?

The Ancients, It Seems, Knew Much We Know

THEBES, Egypt.—Expert eye doctors practiced in ancient Egypt 3,400 years ago. They were adepts at operating on cataracts and paralytic ophthalmia. This is revealed in important papyrus dug up here by Archaeologist Thebes.

CL ZOO, Penn.—A fortification built of stones weighing 40 tons each has been discovered at Allentown, Pa. in the American mountains 45 miles from here. It was built by the ancient Aztecs about 1,300 years ago.

ROME.—Nero's palace had three elevators. Rome collected income tax in the year G. A. D. Rome had 70 labor unions in St. Paul's time. The facts have been authenticated by recently discovered ancient records.

LONDON.—A set of 37 surgical instruments used by Greek doctors in 1,900 years ago is on exhibition here. Handles of surgical instruments are bronze. Blades were steel, but have been almost entirely destroyed by rust.

PHILADELPHIA.—Laws governing rents and tenants were in effect 4,100 years ago, according to inscribed clay tablets from Nippur, now in University of Pennsylvania museum.

HOT! S'ONLY VITAMINE

Now Comes Food and Drink in Powerful Drops

LOS ANGELES.—Science offers us the "vitaminic" juice. And it doesn't conflict with the Volstead law.

Dr. Harry Barringer Cox, physiologist and inventor, sponsors the new juice. He's 57, a native of Zanesville, Ohio, and lives in Los Angeles.

Dr. Cox says he has segregated vitamins, the essence of life in fruit and vegetables.

Thus a man can eat four or five ounces of vitamins and do a day's hard work. The Mrs. can buy the groceries and carry them in a pocket-book. Workmen can carry their lunch in their vest pockets.

He has vitamins in liquid and cellular form. They taste like wine, he says.

And through vitamins, the stomach can distill its own alcohol, Dr. Cox says.

Aniline Dye Breeds Cancer

Observers in Europe have discovered that the workers in dye houses are bladder caused by the aniline dye used. One of the peculiarities of these cancers is the long time that elapses before they develop. Ordinarily the first symptoms appear about fifteen years after the first exposure; in some cases as late as twenty-eight years, but in one case cancer developed after only two years. Sometimes the man is whom the cancer develops has not been working among dyes for ten years or more.

Owing to this long period of incubation it is not possible to state how large a proportion of dye workers develop cancer, but twenty-eight cases were found in one factory employing about 105 hands.

Latin Americans eat custard apples with a spoon. Palm sugar has an excellent sweetness.

12-YEAR-OLD SPARTA GUN TOTER WOUNDS BROTHER IN ARM

Inquiry Shows that Gun Store Was Robbed; Other Boys Carrying Revolvers

SPARTA, Wis.—Paul Larson, 12 years old, seems to have a mania for carrying revolvers and using them whenever opportunity permits. The boy, who is a son of Ernest Larson, who died recently, shot his 7-year-old brother in the arm, while they were playing in the Newton Grove in the rear of the Jefferson Leaf Tobacco Company's warehouse. The boy was taken to a physician, and the matter was reported to the police.

Policeman Leo Sullivan took the revolver away from the boy, and it was later discovered that Principal E. C. Bray had disarmed the boy only a few days previous, and at another time a gun had been taken from the youth.

The boy admitted he had entered the Baldwin gun shop, on East Franklin street, and had helped himself to the guns. He had entered the place through a window in the basement. The fact has been disclosed that other boys in the city are carrying concealed weapons, and warning is given, that if any are caught committing this offense, they will be punished.

The office of Dr. John Scanlon was entered between five and six o'clock, when no one happened to be in the office, and a sum of money amounting to about one hundred and fifty dollars was taken from the safe.

The safe had been left unlocked, but the money drawer was locked, and this had been broken open. No trace was left as to who might have committed the deed.

County Clerk Alex L. Nicol issued the following marriage licenses the past week:

Guy Ward of Sparta and Minnie Meyers of the town of Sparta; Richard G. McKow and Laura Birschele, both of Clifton; Louis O. Gloede of Wilton, and Ella J. Lehmann of Tama; Arthur E. Perso and Myrtle B. Erickson, both of the town of Portland; William J. Bailey and Vera Schmassow, both of Tama.

The fire company was called Monday evening to the home of Earl Jefferson on East Montgomery street, where a fire in his garage was doing considerable damage. The fire started from spontaneous combustion in a pile of oil soaked rags, and before help was at hand had done considerable damage to his car, which was in the garage.

The company was called out again, Tuesday afternoon to a fire in the business district, where a blaze had started on the rear porch over the White Buffet. No great damage was done and the fire was extinguished before the fire company arrived.

MOTORCYCLE WEEK IS COMING EVENT OF INTEREST HERE

April 3 to 10 to Mark Opening of Season for Fans of La Crosse With Picnic Last Day

Every sport has its official opening of the season. Mark the week of April 3rd to 10th in red on your calendar, for it is to be the motorcycle opening week of the motorcycle industry. Although motorcycle week is a year round sport, the first week of April this year and each year hereafter has been named as the real start of the riding season for all motorcycle riders. City runs, fairs, and other events will be held the country over. All cycle dealers will hold open house and decorate their store for the occasion.

Motorcycling as you all know is the greatest sport in the world. There is a thrill and a deep fascination to it. Astride a motorcycle you are a part of it, and it is a part of you and together you glide over the road. You'll never know the thrill until you have tried it.

"Do it with a motorcycle" is the official slogan adopted by the National committee. This is a very fitting slogan as pretty near everything can best be done with a motorcycle.

All the local cycle dealers will hold open house during the week and have the new models on display. Campbell's Cycle Agency, local Harley-Davidson dealers are arranging a beautiful window with the timely spring suggestions in it which will be well worth seeing. Their store has also been entirely remodeled, and is said to be the best equipped cycle store in the Northwest. Howard Campbell, one of the firm members is again at the local store. He has for the past two years been in the employ of Harley-Davidson Motor Company of Milwaukee in the capacity of mechanic and instructor for their dealers and repair men and special traveling mechanic. Mr. Campbell has been thoroughly familiar with the construction, repair and upkeep of the motorcycle and will be glad to talk with the visitors and furnish information on them.

The first motorcycle picnic of the season will be held Sunday April 10th. The place for the picnic has not been decided upon as yet but President Schnick of the Local Club states that he will be sent to all riders and the paper will also have notice of same. All riders are urged to get out and bring along a friend; refreshments will be served and a good program of fun is being arranged. Coming activities of the club will also be considered. Everybody come. "Do it with a motorcycle."

THE POLITICAL FORUM

ENSON SHOWS BENTLEY RECORD ON MILK STATIONS; F. H. FOWLER IS FOR THEM

Frank H. Fowler, non-partisan candidate for mayor, has come out for milk stations and public market. He says Bentley does not even mention them in his platform.

Why? Because Mayor Bentley has fought it from the start. It was in 1916 that I first presented the market plan to Mayor Bentley. He dismissed me early with a statement that the market plan was "worth a damn."

At a meeting of a market committee composed of citizens and aldermen, Mayor Bentley came in without invitation, and launched a personal attack upon me and the plan. Joe Verchola and R. G. Kuntson got up and told him his remarks were out of order. Both Verchola and Kuntson were from the first vigorously supported the market and milk station plan.

I have the minutes of that meeting before me. They show that Mayor Bentley declared he would sign no market and milk station ordinance which provided that retailers could buy up the stuff until the public had been given the first two hours to the purchases.

This is what the enemies of the market wanted him to do. Unless a consumer was given first pick of the market, by law, the dealers could come in and buy up the food. It would put the market out of business, no time. If dealers were permitted to gobble up the supplies, there would be slim picking for the people. And soon the housewives would come to the market, because there would be nothing for them to buy.

Voting Information

To vote for a man, put an "X" after his name on the ballot.

Even if you have failed to register, you may vote at the election April 5 by presenting the sworn statement of two freeholders that they know you to be a qualified resident of your ward. So if you are not registered, be prepared to vote a ballot. There will be freeholders at the voting booths ready and willing to swear you in.

If you will be out of the city on election day, vote now. Make application to the city clerk for a ballot. After you have marked it, he will seal it and send it to your ward to be counted with the regular votes.

If you are now out of the city, send your affidavit to the city clerk stating that you are a resident of your ward and a qualified elector therein, giving your name and address, and ask him to send you a ballot. The marked ballot must reach the clerk's hands the day before election to be counted.

If you are ill and unable to go to the polls, make application at once for your ballot to the city clerk, mark it and send it back to him. On the election officers of your ward may call at your home for your ballot.

REMEMBER—YOU CAN VOTE EVEN IF NOT REGISTERED BY "SWEARING IN" YOUR BALLOT ON ELECTION DAY.

Then there would be no market. Plenty of La Crosse consumers have seen the dealers come and haul away the cream of the food from the market when they wanted it themselves. The mayor's plan was just the thing to put the market out of business. I have the ordinance that Mayor Bentley refused to sign before me as I write. Had it been passed then we would have a great market here today. We had in accept an inferior ordinance, the best the mayor would give us. There has been a constant effort by public officials to put the milk stations out of business. The game was to declare them dirty. But Mr. Armstrong, the health officer, admitted to me that they were clean and the product was fine, and said so in a newspaper interview.

We found enemies of the milk stations spitting on the floor, and put a stop to this. The effort to put the milk stations out of business is going on today, some farmers declaring they will give away their milk until the stations go to the wall. But remember, while milk is from three to four cents cheaper in La Crosse than in any other city in Wisconsin, and our people are saving thousands of dollars on the city's total milk bill.

For years we have fought an uphill battle for the market and milk stations. With me in this fight has been the unfailing support of men like Joe Verchola and R. G. Kuntson. Against us at every turn has been the influence of Mayor Bentley, who attacked the market plan in his newspaper and at every turn has found ways to obstruct the plan. Frank H. Fowler, non-partisan candidate for mayor, has promised to help build up the milk stations and market in every way. They mean a much lower cost of living. That is why I am for Fowler for mayor.

Respectfully,

H. CLAY EVENSON.

THREE MAIN ISSUES

La Crosse, Wis., March 20, 1921. Editor of The Tribune and Leader-Press:

Dear Sir: It seems good to have some discussion of the real issues of the mayoralty campaign coming out in your columns, instead of more wrangling over side issues. What somebody said to somebody else may be interesting but not very important. Now at least three matters that are important have been stated by Mr. Fowler and his friends concerning which I have not seen in print any reply from Mr. Bentley. These three things are:

1. What can be done to help the unemployment situation?
2. What are we getting for our heavier local taxes?
3. Should gambling and boot-legging be allowed to flourish openly in La Crosse?

Now, I am sure the voters would all like to hear Mr. Bentley's sentiments upon these subjects. Has he got a positive policy on each one of them? Or will he use his slippery pen to slide around these issues? Since he has made a special appeal to the women voters, they will be much interested in his reply to the question concerning gambling. Their concern for a clean city in which to raise their sons will have something to do with their opinion upon this matter.

Yours,

A. H. SANFORD.

PERRY BILL URGES HIGHER FEES FOR U. W. NONRESIDENTS

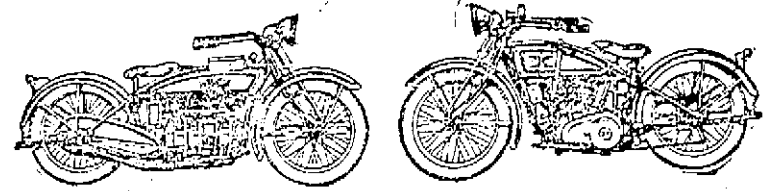

MADISON, Wis.—Nonresident students at the University of Wisconsin will be required to pay a $500 annual tuition fee, if a bill introduced in the assembly Friday morning by Clark M. Perry, of Oshkosh, through the municipality committee becomes a law. The intent of the measure is to drive foreign students from the school and reduce the cost of operation.

There are at present 2,000 out of state students in attendance at the university. By causing these two leave the Wisconsin institution, the enrollment would be cut to 4,000, and the need for a large building program done away with, according to Assemblyman Perry.

The university business manager has stated that the average cost to the state of educating an individual student is between $200 and $250. The present tuition rate is $148.

France's per capita national debt is $1,150. Grizzly bears are becoming rare in Alaska.

BLAINE MARKETING BILL APPROVED BY ASSEMBLY MAJORITY

Caucus Favors Administration Measure With Two Amendments

MADISON, Wis.—The administration marketing bill with two amendments will be favored for passage when it comes up for consideration next Thursday by majority members of the assembly as a result of a caucus held Thursday night to determine the course of action to be followed on the floor when the measure is called for consideration.

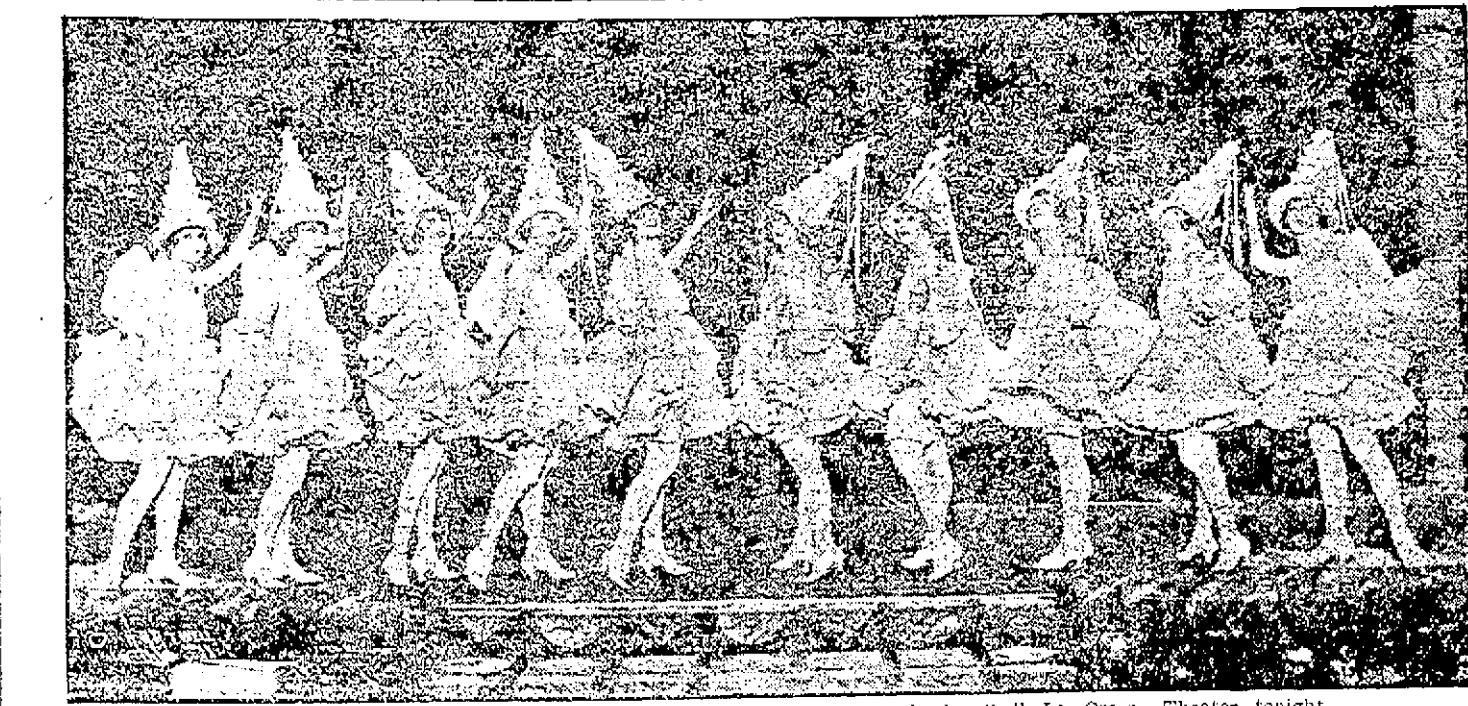

Amendments will be offered cutting out the section of the proposed law giving the "commissioner of markets or any agent authorized by him, access to documents relevant to any matter upon which the department may demand information through subpoena process," and the section giving the commissioner or his agents access to "storehouses, warehouses, and storage plants, or any place where products are kept or stored for commercial purposes."

With these sections removed, another amendment will lower the proposed appropriation from $125,000 annually to $75,000. This reduction would be made in view of the decreased activities of the department after the inspection provisions were done away with.

The proposed amendments of the majority members would cut the life of the bill in the opinion of its supporters. Sections which would be removed, give the department of markets authority to gather evidence which to base its prosecutions.

"Business is hedged about by too many restrictions now," one of the majority members said after the caucus. "If this bill went into effect in its present form you would have inspectors going over the books of concerns, and causing additional trouble at a time when industry should be given leeway in which to recover from the present depression."

When the marketing bill comes up for consideration on Thursday, if it is not passed, it is proposed to complete consideration of the marketing plan to the lower house without referring the bill to the joint finance committee.

A WHIRLY, GIRLY MUSICAL REVUE AT THE VAUDEVILLE SHOW SUNDAY

The Vaudeville show at the La Crosse Theater for Sunday has a big whirlly, girly musical revue by Ed Dunn and his five Sorely Girls as the head line feature. Cleveland and Ray billed as "The Colorful Chorus," Merry and Gay "The Nifty Pair," the original songs and jokes, and Carroll and Burdell comedy variety entertainers are the other acts on the program.

NAZIMOVA AT STRAND

"Billions" is the highly interesting title of Nazimova's newest cinema production, and in this drama from French sources the brilliant actress will be seen as the feature attraction at the Strand today. Advance reports on the picture declare it to be the best that Nazimova has ever done notably from the standpoint of the great variety of emotional expression in the richness of its pictorial background.

"HEARTS ARE TRUMPS"—CASINO

It sometimes happens in pictures that the part an actor is called upon to play resembles his occupation outside the screen. Such is the case with Norman Kennedy who plays the part of John Gillespie, a young artist in the Metro presentation of Cecil De Mille's highly successful melodrama, "Hearts Are Trumps," at the Casino today and Saturday.

Kennedy is extremely handy with a pencil and sketch book and during the times when he was not appearing in his scenes before the camera was busily at work with his pencil and notebook. All inquiries as to what he was doing failed to bring any enlightenment to the curious. It was not until the last scene had been shot that the reason was revealed.

To see Billie Burke in a new play is decidedly a film event of importance, but when one sees that delicate star in so charming a comedy as "The Education of Elizabeth," proved to be at the Majestic last night, then one enjoys a rare treat indeed. At least, that was the verdict of the fans that applauded Elizabeth at Manager Koppellbergers' popular playhouse.

As a chorus girl of the slinky kind, though one who despite her rouge and paint has a golden heart, Miss Burke is unusually artistic. She is a combination of the finest quality and her dulcetness has fine appeal. It would be scarcely fair to reveal the story of "The Education of Elizabeth," but it is entertaining enough to satisfy the most jaded taste. The laughs are many and the supporting company headed by Donald Cameron is quite clever.

Bob Grace and Robert McLeod, two witty claps, appear in a snappy review of popular songs and Van and Yorke a nifty couple offer some good comedy talk also some pleasing songs as well as a nifty dance number. These two acts comprise the vaudeville act on this program at the Majestic.

"PASSION" A SUPER-DRAMA

The amazing results of the passion which seizes and sways mobs composed of thousands of excited rebels are said to be most impressively demonstrated in "Passion," the sensational super-drama which is now the attraction at the Rivoli Theater. A sweepingly irresistible revolution has as its storm center a helpless, little woman who had risen from the level of a milliner to a position commanding a king only to tumble back into the ranks which were disposed to give her no quarter. Pola Negri, the famous Continental star, portrays the highly engaging role of this interesting little milliner and it is said

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

Madison, Wis.—How much of a take do you think each one of the six millions six hundred thousand persons which constitute the total population of Wisconsin has in the material property owned and operated by the state? The state owns such land, the University, the normal schools, the charitable and penal institutions under the board of control, the state fair grounds, the state capital, etc., etc. If it were practical to divide all the holdings and let each person take his share, what could be the money value of the take? Ask some of your friends to make a guess, and the guess will probably be up in the hundreds or in the thousands, but this would be wide of the mark. Each person's share in the material property owned by the state, and this reckoned on the basis of present values, is a little less than $5. That is to say, that all that has been paid in this state per capita for the buildings and property of all kind owned by the state is $5.

According to C. M. Baker, state sanitary engineer, the total volume of all kinds of waste discharging into the streams and lakes of Wisconsin is about 542,000,000 gallons daily, which is equivalent to about 1,300,000,000 gallons daily of domestic sewage. These figures correspond approximately to the minimum flow of the Wisconsin river at Milwaukee and Merrill, respectively. The conditions in the Fox river, the engineer reports, are at times very critical. Much pollution also finds its way into the section of the Wisconsin river between Merrill and Nekeosha. The Rock river below Janesville is also badly polluted, as is the Chippewa river just below Eau Claire. The pollution of Lake Michigan in the vicinity of Milwaukee and some of the other shore cities is also becoming a serious problem. The new water and sewerage law, passed two years ago, is serving to correct these conditions as time goes on.

The divorce statistics of Wisconsin compiled by the bureau of vital statistics present some interesting data. Among other things they show that divorce on the ground of drunkenness has declined from 139 in 1915 to 42 in 1920. The total number of divorces for all causes reached the highest figure—2,422—in the history of the state in 1920. This was an increase of 23 per cent in one year. In 1910 for every 100 marriages there were 6.4 divorces recorded. In 1920 from the data now at hand there were 12.7 divorces for every 100 marriages. The divorces in 1920 show 1,744 granted to the wife, as against 681 granted to the husband. Cruelty led among the causes with a total of 1,079; desertion came next with 701; adultery was the ground in 105 cases.

and that their duty is to aid it in construction adequately. Senator Huber's proposed constitutional amendment to institute the initiative and referendum went down to defeat in the senate on Thursday notwithstanding an earnest plea for it by the author of the measure. The initiative and referendum was distinctly an administration measure and its defeat is considered significant.

Adjutant General Holway in General Orders No. 7, just issued, gives compliance with current tables of organization and allotment of National Guard units to Wisconsin, approved by the secretary of war, the conversions, transfers and assignments of organizations made and announced to become effective as of April 1, 1921.

In the charitable and penal institutions of the state under the direction of the state board of control, the total population has increased 148 over that of February 28th, 1920. There are now a total of 8,292 persons being treated in the county and state asylums, of which 4,190 are male and 4,102 female.

The year's highway construction program is about to be inaugurated. It is predicted that there will be relatively less concrete road construction, but a more general improvement in roads. The policy instituted by Chief Engineer Huest of the highway commission to "serve the traffic" is to be carried out. When a mile of concrete road is built in Wisconsin in 1921 it will cost $4,000 more than it did in 1911 on account of the increase in freight rates alone.

BAN JOHNSON DECLARES CERTAIN LEAGUE OWNERS MUST BE DRIVEN FROM BASEBALL

CLEVELAND, O.—Certain owners of major league clubs have not been true to their trust and will be driven from baseball, Ban Johnson, president of the American league, said Thursday night. These facts, Mr. Johnson said, developed from the recent investigations into the baseball scandal.

"Thirty per cent of the owners of teams in the American and National leagues must go," Johnson said. "Changes in ownership are necessary for the good of the game, and I expect to see the other owners combine with me in bringing about the needed changes."

Mr. Johnson refused to name the owners he believed were guilty.

ITEMS FROM FIELD OF SPORT

The sixth chess game between Capablanca and Lasker at Havana was adjourned last night without a decision after 37 moves.

Stanislus Zyzysko threw Jack Vogel of Milwaukee in two straight falls at St. Louis last night.

Halpa Greenleaf, pocket billiard champion, last night set a new world record at York, Pa., by pocketing 100 balls before missing.

Two records were shattered and a third was equaled last night in the opening events of the Intercontinental swimming championships at San Lake City. Miss Pearl Kimball, University of Utah, lowered her own mark in the fifty yard free style from forty-one seconds to 20 2/5 seconds. Victor Day, Deseret gymnasium, set a record in the 150 yard back stroke. Time, 2:08 2/5.

The St. Louis National league team arrived here today from their spring training camp ready to meet the local American league entry in a series of games starting Saturday. The American league team returned home Wednesday.

Three days practice at Fort Worth, beginning Friday will finish the Texas training of the Chicago White Sox and they will start north. A new pitcher, capable of taking his regular turn on the mound for the Sox has been discovered. Manager Gleason believes in Dominick Mulrennan. He held the Fort Worth team to three hits and one run for six innings yesterday.

The first extra inning game of the clubs training trip brought Alce Freeman, club recruit pitcher, into the limelight yesterday. He allowed only seven hits in the thirteen inning game against Oakland of the Pacific Coast league, a single in the thirteenth scoring the winning run for Oakland, 3 to 2.

Team entries for the University of Pennsylvania relay arrived April 29 and closed today with the largest list of colleges and schools in the history of the meet. Entries from one hundred and eleven colleges and three hundred schools, breaking all records, have been received.

Iowa State wrestlers were in prime condition for their meet at Ames tonight with the Penn State team.

Competition in the national college field and track meet, instead of being limited to the winners of the various conference meets, will be extended to every standard university and college in the country. It was announced at Chicago today. The meet, the first of its kind, will be held at the University of Chicago, June 18. Every college and university will be invited to enter their best athletes.

THE "DICER"
Remember when we called derby hats "dice boxes?" Dickens wrote about the "pot hat" and his countrymen still call 'em "Bowlers."

The graceful soft hat of today is an aftermath of the Civil War and finds its greatest perfection in the Gordon Hat.

The Gordon models this season are sightly—the colors mighty attractive.

Leaders Remain Intact Through Closing Shots in American Bowling Congress

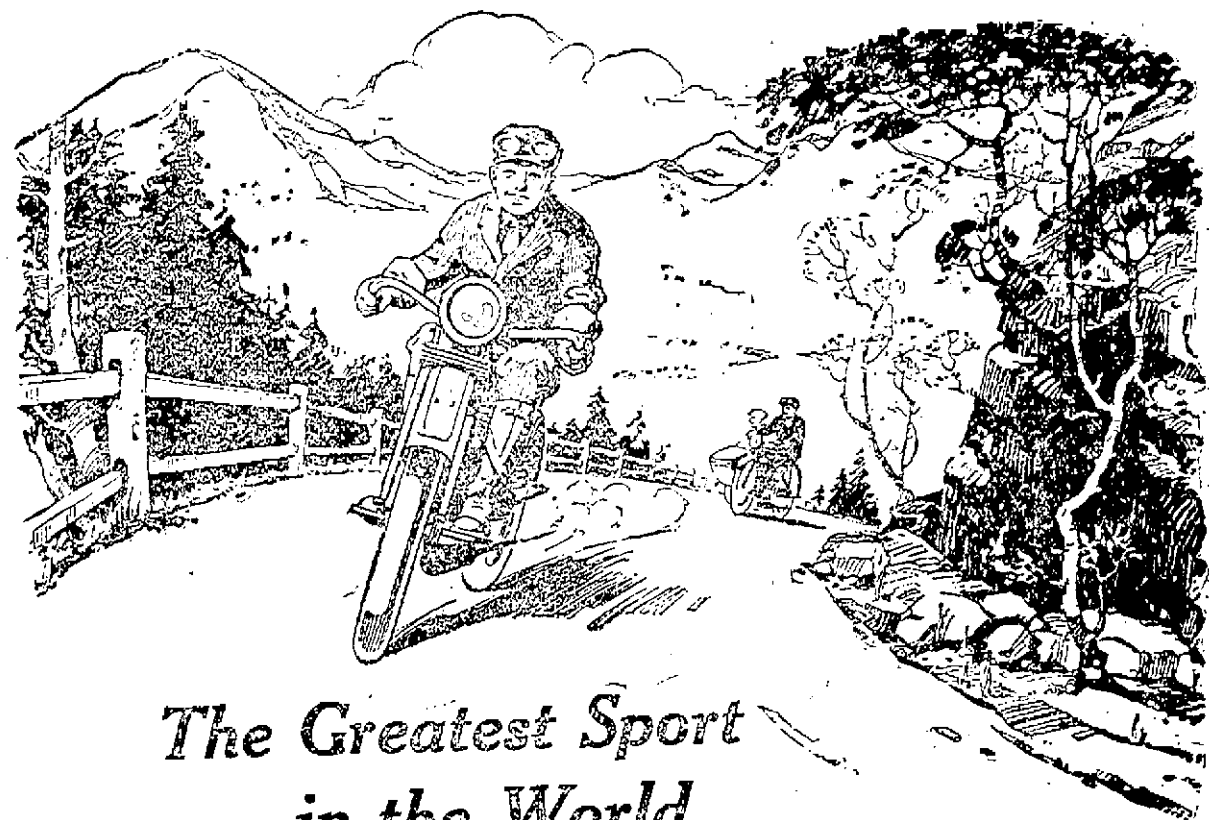

BUFFALO, N. Y.—With a clatter of pins and loud sounding of foul line songs, the A. B. C. tournament came to a close Thursday afternoon, but without any changes being made in the positions of the leaders. World's champions in varying events are:

Five men—Sanderson, Toronto, score, 2,066.
Doubles—O. Kallush, A. Shieman, Rochester, score 1,314.
Singles—Fred S. Smith, Detroit, score 702.

All events—Archie Shieman, Rochester, score 1,909.
Toledo and Buffalo bowlers held down the drives in the doubles and singles events Thursday afternoon and Mary a 1,200 was shot in the doubles, while the best singles mark was the 657 of Chuck Siebert of Toledo.

Nine Toledo pairs rolled into the doubles money while fourteen Indianapolis made the grade in the singles. Thus ends what has been a record-breaking tournament in two ways—entry, there being 945 five-men teams in attendance, and attendance—there being approximately 70,000 paid admissions during the month's run of the classic.

"The nation has always looked to the rural districts for its greatest statesmen."—A. L. Clark, chief of New Jersey department of agriculture.

YOUNG MAN SENT TO HOSPITAL BY COURT HELD KLEPTOMANIAC

Charles Lentherr, 18 years old, was sent to the state hospital for insane by County Judge Bradley Thursday afternoon. Lentherr had been arrested on a charge of stealing a bicycle. The police charged that he was a kleptomaniac, that he had a habit of stealing trivial articles. Judge Bradley appointed two physicians to examine Lentherr and they reported that the youth was highly nervous, that he stole things he had no use for, and that he was unable to realize the seriousness of his offenses.

Fifty Times as Strong as Alcohol
Says Campaigner
CHICAGO.—Every cigaret contains furfuryl, a chemical composition with a kick 50 times as strong as alcohol, according to Lucy Page Glendon of the Anti-Cigaret League.

Members are redoubling their efforts to stamp out the weed. In their educational campaign they stress these points:

Cigarets contain besides furfuryl ammonia, carbon monoxide, prussic acid, and nicotine.

One hundred and sixty billion cigarettes are smoked annually in the United States.

Three million dollars a day is spent for cigarettes.

MARRIAGE LICENSES USED BY GERMANS IN RENT PROFITEERING

Schemers Get Housing Officer's Permission to Occupy Rooms; Resell Right

BERLIN.—Marriage licenses are being utilized for profiteering by Germans. The marriage "profiteers" developed out of the situation which has made necessary the strict rationing of housing space. A married couple or a pair about to be married may obtain permission to occupy certain rooms by presentation of the marriage license to the Housing Office.

It has been discovered that many marriage licenses have been issued to men and women who have no intention to marry but, having secured the license, and the permission to occupy the number of rooms allotted to married persons, sell the "permission" to married folks or others who need rooms and cannot find them.

The officials say some profitable business has been done, but that the practice is being stopped by keeping a watch on those to whom marriage licenses are granted and withdrawing permission to occupy rooms unless the marriage is performed.

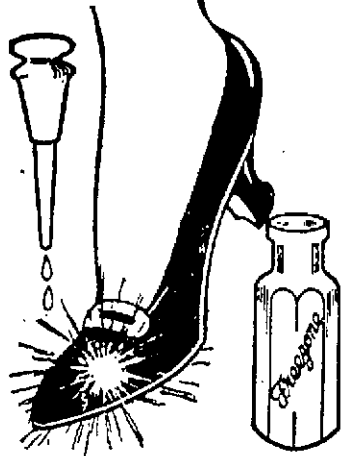

Marriages, however, eclipsed all previous records in the last year. The number has increased two-fold over pre-war years, and many fold over the marriages during the war, which fell to less than half the normal number.

"Many young folks today are getting married here simply to get a room cheaply," said a Berlin official. "The cost of the dwelling is cut in half by the marriage of a man and woman, both of whom are working. They also feel they can co-operate to some advantage in the matter of food, which is a serious problem."

CHAMPION FLOUR MAKER OF THE WORLD RETIRES

John Kraft, Minneapolis, Made Enough Flour to Last U. S. a Year

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Ranking as the champion flour maker of the world, John Kraft, who retired recently after continuous service for 46 years, holds the unique record of making enough flour to feed the entire population of the United States and its possessions for a period of one year. Because of impaired vision Mr. Kraft, who is 83 years old, terminated his connection with a local flour company after establishing a record which milling engineers believe will stand for many years.

Engineers at the plant estimate that during his 46 years of active service, Mr. Kraft made 128,000,000 barrels of flour. According to the veteran miller, an average normal person consumes about one barrel of flour a year or its equivalent. Mr. Kraft's output therefore could feed the population of entire United States and its possessions which is approximately 125,000,000 and at the end of one year have a large surplus.

Expressed by milling engineers, the stupendous amount of flour milled under Kraft's eyes would if placed in barrels end to end extend around the world three times; would cover every square foot of site of Minneapolis with flour six inches deep, and if loaded for shipment, would require 400,000 cars or 15,300 average trains.

Mr. Kraft has been a head miller for 28 years and during this time has had three mills under his supervision. Born in Schlotzau, Germany, Jan.

uary 12, he came to this country when 20 years of age. It was not until he had resided here three years that he obtained employment in the mills.

Beginning at the bottom as a sweeper, he gradually worked his way up through the various stages of smelter, machine tender and grinder. He was made a head miller in 1883. Five years later he was in charge of three mills. In 1908 however, with advancing years, he relinquished his authority over two of them.

During his long period in the flour milling profession, Mr. Kraft has seen it revolutionized. While a worker in the mills, he witnessed the replacing of rolls for the old millstones, new purifying methods, and the installation of dust collectors. Also the former head miller has watched the mighty growth of the village to which he came in 1872 to a large city known throughout the world for its flour mills.

Until modern times, Bangkok, Siam, was built largely on floating pontoons and piles.

Johnson Planning Third Party is Report to G. O. P.

WASHINGTON.—"Hiram Johnson is off the reservation before the administration has even begun." That is the word in inside G. O. P. circles.

Ever since election the feeling has persisted inside regular organization ranks that sooner or later Johnson would run amuck and muss things up. Now, it is declared, there is no longer any doubt.

Naming of Herbert Hoover, hated by Johnson, for a cabinet post, is said to be one cause for the break.

Out of the Johnson defection, politicians forecast these probable results:

An effort by Johnson to divide republican support for any "association of nations."

Constant emphasis on the "Japanese question" to hold his California constituency.

A spectacular campaign against

"special interests" and "special privilege."

Out of all these to build the foundation for a new third party, which he might lead for president in 1924.

Tax Relief Demanded Before Tariff Revision

A nation-wide poll of the country's leading newspapers conducted by THE LITERARY DIGEST reveals a majority, regardless of party, of nearly five to one for giving precedence to the readjustments of our "galling tax burdens."

The profoundly interesting leading article in the April 2d issue of THE DIGEST gives a comprehensive survey of the answers received from publications of all shades of opinion. These are couched in no uncertain terms, The New York Journal of Commerce stating that "all authorities and members of all parties, groups, and schools of thought agree that the internal-revenue duties (including income and excess-profits taxes) are a chief cause of business depression and disturbance and that they must be revised. Few, if any, except some interested manufacturers, believe the same of the tariff situation." The Hartford Courant declares that "a change in the tax laws would receive universal approval, but no change in the tariff can fail to find savage critics, and Congress will be wise to begin with what all want rather than what is sure to find opponents. The need is greater and the opportunity more attractive," and the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch insists that we "give tax revision the right of way, for this tremendous problem affects every State, every section, every community, every individual," while the Chicago Post holds that "there is vastly more dissatisfaction with the existing system of taxation than there is with the present tariff."
